R. R. Chaffin Is Being Held at Police Station. Was Boarder at Home of the Victim of Shot.

R. R. Chaffin, 27, was arrested Thursday night and is held at police headquarters without bond pending investigation of facts surrounding the supposed suicide of Parks Sewell, 47, prominent Atlanta insurance man and real estate dealer, who was mysteriously shot to death last Friday morning at his home, 20 Boulevard circle.

Mrs. Sewell, widow of the dead man, and her daughter, Miss Margaret Sewell, were also taken to police station Thursday night, but were released when an hour's grilling by Assistant Solicitor General Ed A. Stephens failed to yield any tangible facts in regard to the fatal shooting.

No Formal Charge.

While no formal charge has been placed against Chaffin, who was a boarder in the Sewell home at the time of the tragedy, he will be held on suspicion until every detail of the shooting can be sifted. He was arrested at the residence by Detectives J. D. Cady and N. A. Lampkin.

Chaffin's arrest and the questioning of Mrs. Sewell and her daughter resulted from an anonymous letter received by police shortly after the shooting, indicating that the entire affair would bear investigation, coupled with the fact that, while a coroner's inquest was held and no attempt at secrecy was made in connection with the shooting, no report was ever actually made to police.

At a late hour Thursday night, constant questioning had failed to break Chaffin's alibi. He told officers that he had been a boarder at the Sewell home for three years, and had known the family for several years previous to the time he took up his residence at their home.

Denies Hearing Shot.

He denied that he heard the shot which Sewell is said to have ended his own life, although admitting that he was in the yard back of the house at the time. Mrs. Sewell is said to have been in the front yard, and she also denied that she had heard any shots fired.

According to Chaffin's story, he entered the front door of the house, talking into Sewell's room, where he found the man lying on the floor in a pool of blood, with a revolver near his feet. He said that he did not touch the man, but took it for granted that he was already dead, and did not even examine him to see if there were powder burns about his head.

Plan Is Aimed To Check Decreases in Birthrate in France.

Paris, March 6.—In a practical effort to check the falling birthrate in France, an apartment house builder at Bordeaux has offered a number of small apartments to poor couples at two-thirds of the normal rent for such flats, on condition they receive regular visits from the stork.

The low rents will continue provided the couple have one child within the first three-year period of their tenancy, a second in the next three years and a third in the next three. In fact, with the second and third child the rents will be cut another 10 per cent each time the stork arrives. The agreement holds good until there are 18 children.

SENATE FINANCE BODY
Agrees To Incorporate
25 Per Cent Cut in Joint Resolution.

Washington, March 6.—Machinery was set in motion in Congress today to remove from the revenue bill that provision for a 25 per cent reduction on personal income taxes payable this year and incorporate it in a joint resolution which could be adopted before March 15, when first instalments are due.

Acting on a request from the treasury department, the senate finance committee unanimously indicated its desire to agree to such a procedure, and Chairman Green, of the house ways and means committee, announced he would place the proposal before that committee tomorrow. If adopted, Mr. Green said, he would call for a special rule which would permit the house to take the resolution up immediately.

May Delay Passage.

A flareback, which leaders late today admitted was growing to considerable proportions, developed, however, and fear was expressed by some members of both parties that removal of the proposal from the revenue bill might leave that measure open to delay in enactment.

In this connection some members also recalled the recent statement of Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, republican member of the ways and means committee and a staunch advocate of the Mellon rates which were eliminated from the bill, suggesting such action by joint resolution with the hint of a presidential veto of the measure itself.

Oppose Flat Cut.

After talking the proposition over with leaders in the senate, Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, a Washington, March 6.—The sensation created by the disclosure of President Coolidge's telegram to E. B. McLean during the senate oil investigation has started furious speculation as to the political effect on the presidential campaign.

Wary as Washington is of the bewildering flood of sensations that have poured forth day after day, the disclosure of the Coolidge telegram stirred the capital. Government clerks eagerly bought the early editions of the newspapers which carried these black headlines on the Coolidge telegrams. Intimations that Coolidge's name was to be brought into the inquiry have been circulating for several days and public curiosity here was whetted, ready for the development.

Harrison Into Action.

Within an hour Senator Pat Harrison, the chief heckler on the democratic side, was on his feet in the senate delivering a caustic speech on the latest development. President Coolidge issued brief explanations intended to show that the telegrams had no connection with the oil affair. Senator Lodge, majority leader, delivered a long explanation in the senate, stating that he spoke on the authority of the president, and insisting that the matters Coolidge referred to in his telegrams to McLean were entirely legitimate and cast no reflection on the chief executive. Late in the day senators indulged in a free-for-all debate, in which the president was savagely attacked and warmly defended.

Party Colors in Riot.

But the explanations only stimulated political speculation in the lobby and cloak-rooms of the house and senate.

Party connections colored most of the comment. Democrats insisted that the telegrams revealed a personal friendship between the president and the man who, at the time the telegrams were sent, had admitted making a false statement regarding the $100,000 loan to Albert B. Fall and who was then pulling many strong wires to keep the senate oil committee from calling him to the witness stand. This relationship and the fact that Sleep was a guest of McLean when he was in Florida, and Former Piggly Wiggly Head Enjoined From Starting New System of Chain Stores.

Memphis, March 6.—Judge J. W. Ross issued a temporary injunction in federal district court here late today restraining Clarence Saunders from opening tomorrow what was planned as the initial unit of a new nationwide chain store system.

The temporary injunction was granted on a petition filed by the Piggly Wiggly Corporation of which Saunders formerly was the head and was based on alleged contract rights.

The restraining order issued today will remain in effect pending hearing of the petition on its merits, March 17. Judge Ross required the Piggly Wiggly corporation to furnish $20,000 bond.

Although enjoined from opening the store, Saunders declared tonight that the festivities he had planned for the event will be carried out and the crowd will be permitted to view the interior of his store from the street. The doors will remain locked and the injunction order will be strictly observed, he said.

Brewster Invites His Wife
To Sue Him for Divorce

MISS CORLISS PALMER.

Morristown, N. J., March 6.—Through the unwitting instrumentality of Mrs. Eleanor V. Brewster, the storm-tossed romance of her husband, Eugene V. Brewster, millionaire publisher, and Miss Corliss Palmer, titian haired screen beauty, is on smooth seas again and will run its course in the magnificent New Jersey estate which Brewster purchased for $250,000 as a setting for Miss Palmer's beauty.

"Mrs. Brewster doesn't know it yet, but we owe her a debt of gratitude we never will be able to pay," said Miss Palmer today. "Divorce or no divorce, I never will leave Eugene again, never. Mrs. Brewster said her husband didn't want a divorce and hadn't tried to get one because he didn't want to marry me. Well, we are going to live our lives together for all the world to see. This is the very happiest day of my life."

While Miss Palmer talked Brewster stood with his arms about her neck and occasionally he stooped to kiss her neck.

Brewster said he would bring suit for divorce on the ground of desertion under the laws of New Jersey as soon as he had lived in that state long enough to establish a voting residence there, which he declared, would be shortly. In the meantime he extended to Mrs. Brewster a public invitation to proceed herself.

Gives His Fortune To Brother, and Goes Back to Pauper Friends.

Pineville, Ky., March 6.—Gustave Salomez, 50-year-old millionaire, has come back to the poorhouse here to die.

"Ah! This is home again," he exclaimed, his wrinkled face wreathed in smiles as he accepted a few hearty pats on the back and handshakes of the inmates he had deserted a few weeks ago for a palatial home in Middlesboro.

For 30 years "Steve White, the pointer of houses," dodged the million-dollar inheritance left to "Gustave Salomez." And now he wants to forget it all.

"Am I afraid of money? No, I just don't want any, that's all," Steve said, and Steve it is because that's the name he's known by around here and he likes it.

"It was mighty nice in that swell home in Middlesboro, but I don't know, I kinda like it better here. Not so many comforts, but, well, I just want to die happy and a plain nobody."

The millionaire-pauper walked to the poorhouse from Middlesboro, a distance of 30 miles, because, he smilingly said, "I was broke." He has given the fortune to a brother.

COUPLE SEPARATED,

Letter Is Introduced in Which Byfield Exonerated Candler From All Blame in the Incident.

Admitting, under a rigid cross-examination by defense counsel, that in approximately ten minutes after he had discovered his wife and Walter T. Candler together in a Berengaria stateroom on the high seas in the summer of 1922, he had in his pocket Candler's check for $25,000, Clyde Byfield, witness for the plaintiff, furnished Thursday's most sensational element in the trial of Mrs. Byfield's $100,000 suit for damages against Candler for alleged assault.

This was the first day of the sensational suit originating in mid-summer, 1922, after Candler and the two Byfields had returned from a trip to Europe. Mrs. Byfield's suit claims that Candler attacked her in her stateroom the night before the Berengaria was to land them at Cherbourg.

Events of Night Traced.

The events of that night had been traced several times in direct testimony and in cross-examination. Byfield, the last witness for the plaintiff—whose case was announced closed Thursday afternoon—said that he had discovered Candler in his stateroom, and stated that later, after much insistence from Candler, he had accepted a check for $25,000—as remuneration for the humiliation and for the financial loss which he claimed the experience would cause him.

In his cross-questioning, Reuben Arnold, defense counsel, sought to prove that as soon as Byfield entered the room he accused Candler of intimate relations with Mrs. Byfield and immediately asked the local banker for satisfaction in the shape of a check for $25,000.

"Did you not ask Mr. Candler for the money within one minute after

HIKE TO BE MADE IN WHEAT TARIFF

President Will Order Increase Today, To Go Into Effect Within 30 Days.

Washington, March 6.—Increases in the tariff rate on wheat, flour and wheat products will be ordered tomorrow by President Coolidge, acting under authority conferred upon him by the flexible provision of the Fordney-McCumber tariff act.

Proclamations setting forth the new rate on the basis of comparative cost of production of wheat and wheat products in Canada and the United States were drawn up today for the president's signature. Necessity of referring the document to the tariff commission for checking some of the production figures, however, delayed issuance of the proclamation.

The new rates will become effective 30 days from the date of issuance of the proclamation. The present duties are 30 cents a bushel on wheat; 78 cents a hundred pounds on flour, and 15 per cent ad valorem on mill feeds.

The president under the flexible provision of the tariff act may proclaim increases amounting to 50 per cent of the existing rates.

Such an increase applied to wheat, and it is generally believed the full increase will be ordered, would make the tariff on that grain 45 cents a bushel. A similar increase applied to mill feeds would raise the rate to 22 1/2 per cent ad valorem. The increase on flour is expected to be proportional, bringing the rate to $1.12 a hundred pounds.

The action of the president will be the first taken under the flexible provision since the present law was passed in September, 1922.

ZIHLMAN, MARYLAND,
ADMITS HE IS ONE OF ACCUSED SOLONS

Baltimore, Md., March 6.—The Sun tomorrow will print the following from its Washington correspondent:

"Representative Frederick N. Zihlman, republican, of Maryland, is one of the two members of the house of representatives whose names were brought into the grand jury proceedings at Chicago and against whom the department of justice is seeking to make a case of improperly receiving money."

"This became known beyond all question today, when the Maryland representative himself candidly admitted that he had been apprised of the fact that he had been implicated. He issued a brief public statement asking the public to suspend judgment regarding the matter until the nature of the charges are made known and the charges have been answered."

"Mr. Zihlman's statement is as follows:

"The matter has been brought to me from various quarters, but I am at a loss to know what it is I am presumed to be implicated in. And until I do know and we all know what may be the nature of the charges I ask the public to suspend its judgment regarding the matter as it may involve my name, my character and my integrity."

"In the absence of definite charges, which I hear have been made against me, it is impossible for me to issue a specific denial or to make a definite statement. I can only say that I court the fullest investigation. I am conscious of having committed no wrong."

DAUGHERTY FACES FIGHT TO RETAIN
POST IN CABINET

Coolidge Completes Sifting Process of Candidates for Place and Is Ready With Successor.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, March 6.—Attorney General Daugherty will return to Washington tomorrow from Florida to find that his tenure of office again hangs by a slender thread.

Unless he can present new and overpowering arguments why he should remain in the cabinet, there is every expectation in administration circles that he will be asked without delay to retire.

He probably will reach the capital in time to attend the regular Friday cabinet meeting, and a final decision regarding him may be announced by President Coolidge after the situation has been talked over again by the executive and his chief advisers.

Today there was no explanation from any official source regarding the circumstances of the attorney general's unexpected return to Washington. Neither would the white house or the justice department make any predictions regarding his course after he arrives. But it was tacitly conceded that his first duty would be to report to the president.

The administration sifting of eligibles to succeed the post of attorney general, a process of which there was further confirmation today in administration quarters, progressed during the day to a point where a selection of a successor could be made quickly.

The attitude toward the appointment of the three jurists under consideration—former Senator Kenyon, of Iowa, now a federal circuit judge; Chief Justice Wilbur, of California; and Federal District Judge Dietrich, of Idaho—now is known to President Coolidge.

Friends of Judge Kenyon here reported that they believed he would accept, if chosen, despite the fact that acceptance would entail his relinquishment of a life position on the federal bench.

Dietrich Declines.

Chief Justice Wilbur conferred recently with President Coolidge and is remaining in the east temporarily, visiting friends in North Carolina.

The personal views of Judge Dietrich on the question also have been sent to Washington and they are believed to have decreased the likelihood of his selection.

Governor Grosbeck, of Michigan, another mentioned as a possible successor to Mr. Daugherty, was a white house caller today in company with Michigan friends and has another appointment for tomorrow. He insisted he knew of no discussion of his name in connection with a cabinet appointment.

Resolution Passed by Unanimous Vote Orders Attorney General To Name Accused Solons.

PROBE NOW ORDERED
WILL TAKE MONTH

Garrett Led Move To Compel Revelation, Saying Charges Reflect on All Representatives.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, March 6.—Immediate disclosure of the names of the two representatives charged in a Chicago grand jury's report with accepting bribes was demanded today by the house.

A resolution directing the attorney general to transmit the names to the house was adopted unanimously after representative Longworth, the republican leader, had announced the accused men would have an opportunity to defend themselves on the floor.

Mr. Longworth said he had been informed the evidence against the two house members had been presented to the Chicago grand jury by "crooks and criminals," and came up incidentally during the investigation of alleged veterans' bureau frauds.

Talked With Him.

The republican leader disclosed that he had discussed the situation with Acting Attorney General Seymour and John W. H. Crim, special government counsel in charge of the Chicago grand jury's inquiry, and had gained the impression that no action would be expected by a grand jury here with regard to the charges within a month.

Publication of the grand jury's report referring to two house members without naming them, in the opinion of Mr. Longworth put the entire membership of the house under suspicion and made prompt action to establish the identity of the accused imperative.

This view was shared by others, among them Representative Garrett, the democratic leader, who started the move to have the names disclosed. The resolution adopted today was a modification of the Garrett proposal offered Tuesday for an investigation to determine not only the identity of the house members involved but the basis of the charges against them.

Request Is Mandatory.

Reported by the rules committee without a dissenting vote, after a two-hour session, the resolution was brought up within a half hour by Chairman Snell. After forty minutes discussion, it was adopted after a phrase which called for transmission of the names "if not incompatible with public interest," had been eliminated at the suggestion of Representative Steagall, democrat, Alabama.

At the department of justice, it was said later that no action probably would be taken in compliance with the house resolution before the return to Washington tomorrow of Attorney General Daugherty.

In presenting the resolution for house action Mr. Snell declared that rumors in circulation seriously reflected in the integrity and honor of the house, which could not afford to "sit idly by" in the face of the situation.

Taking up the argument in favor of quick action on the resolution, Mr. Longworth said Speaker Gillett and Mr. Garrett had participated in the conference which he had this morning with Mr. Seymour and Mr. Crim, and that the meeting was held at the request of the two department of justice officials.

"They explained the situation to us," said Mr. Longworth, "and Mr. Crim stated that a large part of the evidence used in the presentation of the Veterans' Bureau case before the Chicago grand jury came from crooks and convicted criminals, who went far afield in some of their answers, and that he felt obliged to pursue the leads given him."

"It wouldn't be so bad," the republican leader continued, "if the department of justice had its case ready to present to a grand jury here with jurisdiction in the matter, but it has not. We have no assurance that anything will be done within a month."

Would Probe Chicago Jury.

Declaring that once their names are disclosed, the accused could offer a defense on the floor of the house, Mr. Longworth added:

"If they don't, we either can try this case ourselves or leave it to the department of justice."

He said he was convinced "the department intends to indict these two men and convict them."

With the remark that the Chicago grand jury had gone "very far afield," Mr. Longworth said he did not know whether the jury or department of justice officials were responsible for broadcasting the information that two house members were guilty of wrongdoing.

Representative Cooper, republican, Wisconsin, suggested that the whole procedure at Chicago should be investigated.

Mr. Garrett reminded the house that the situation was "delicate" and that there were no precedents to guide leaders in their efforts to establish the truth. He also declared that the information he had was that the department of justice "is not sure of its grounds with regard to the two members of congress."

Brookhart Gets More Evidence

New information was received today by Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, chairman of the committee and turned over to Senator Wheeler.

There probably will be a change in the committee's tentative program to open the hearings with evidence relating to enforcement of the anti-trust laws. Committee members said that instead of a new line of inquiry, not now possible of disclosure, would be taken up first.

In the senate today there was brief reference made to the affair of Mr. Daugherty, Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, again attacking the republican national committee for its statements in the case. The senator charged that the national committee was seeking to undermine public confidence in the senate inquiry by attacking the senators appointed to conduct the inquiry.

BRYAN GETS BOOM FROM ARKANSAS

Little Rock, Ark., March 6.—The wheels of the William J. Bryan, presidential boom were set in motion Thursday night, when representatives from 61 counties at a democratic caucus here, voted to instruct the delegates to the national convention to support Senator Robinson, nomination leader, as first choice for the nomination, and Bryan as a second choice.

More than 5,000 supporters of the "Bryan for president" movement gathered in convention hall at the Hotel Marion, cheered loudly at each mention of the commoner's name, which was frequent. Former Governor George W. Donaghy presided.

Observers saw in the endorsement of Robinson a duty the state felt toward a native son. It is generally believed the minority leader will receive the honor and that the boom for Bryan will be thrown into high gear.

Speakers on the program accentuated the honesty of the "anti-evolutionist" to overcome the numerous government scandals in which the indictments in connection with the Veterans' Bureau were frequently mentioned.

Among the first of the southern states to be invaded by Bryan backers will be Tennessee and Mississippi, it was stated.

MILLER BELL ASSAILS UNDERWOOD CLAIMS

Miller S. Bell, manager of the headquarters of William Gibbs McAdoo, candidate for the support of the Georgia delegation to the democratic presidential nomination, Thursday gave out a statement, pointing out certain alleged discrepancies in a statement issued Wednesday from the Oscar W. Underwood headquarters.

Mr. Bell claims that the Underwood statement, issued by R. C. Gordon, manager, is self-contradictory on many points.

Bell's Reply.

The Bell reply in full, is as follows: "R. C. Gordon, manager of senator Underwood's campaign headquarters, gave the newspapers Wednesday a very peculiar interview.

"In one paragraph he denied as absolutely false my statement that Senator Underwood voted against prohibition, and in the next paragraph he admitted that Senator Underwood did vote against prohibition. I do not know upon which of these two propositions Mr. Gordon will finally settle himself in this campaign, and it makes no difference, since no amount of language on his part can change the record.

"Senator Underwood did vote against prohibition as I stated in my statement. He did vote against woman suffrage and did vote against the child labor law, as I further said in my statement. There is no room for controversy on these points. I challenge Mr. Gordon to produce the record to support his denial of my statement.

"Mr. Gordon further denied as 'absolutely false' my statement that Senator Underwood opposed acceptance of Henry Ford's offer to manufacture cheap fertilizer at Muscle Shoals for the benefit of the farmers, and in the next paragraph he lodged on this point by saying, 'Senator Underwood is recognized as one of the leaders of the movement to develop Muscle Shoals for the benefit of the south. What he means by this is rather vague. My statement was clear and explicit—that Senator Underwood opposed acceptance of Henry Ford's offer. 'If Mr. Gordon admits on much Senator Underwood's record, why does he become so irritated because I call attention to how the senate voted on measures involving the prosperity of the farmers and the welfare of women and children?'

Progressive Democrat.

"Mr. McAdoo is an independent, progressive democrat. He supported and assisted in passing prohibition, woman suffrage and the child labor law. He favors acceptance of Henry Ford's offer to manufacture cheap fertilizer at Muscle Shoals. Senator Underwood is a reactionary stand-pat democrat. He opposed prohibition, opposed woman suffrage, opposed the child labor law and opposed the Ford offer.

"Mr. McAdoo is running strong all over the United States and will go into the convention with a majority of votes on the first ballot. Senator Underwood is running in Alabama with strong opposition and may or may not carry that state. Mr. McAdoo is a real candidate. Senator Underwood is a stalking horse. That is the thing that irritates the gentlemen in the Underwood headquarters."

SOUTHERN COTTON OIL FIRM IN BANKRUPTCY

New York, March 6.—The Southern Cotton Oil company, a subsidiary of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical company, was petitioned into involuntary bankruptcy today.

The Southern Cotton Oil company and the Virginia-Carolina Chemical company in Jersey City last Monday by a number of creditors, and receivers were appointed.

Ancillary receivers were also appointed in this city by the United States district court. In the papers filed on that date the liabilities of the Southern Cotton Oil company were stated as $11,000,000. The bankruptcy petition was signed by C. Heit and Son, Inc., of Jersey City; Adolph H. Salmon, New York, and the Young Commission company, Inc., New York. Their claims totaled about $1,200.

H. C. Brown, district manager of the Southern Cotton Oil company, with offices at Fort McPherson, was absent from the city Thursday, but officials in charge of the office stated that no word had been received by the local office regarding the bankruptcy petition, and that business was continued as usual, although the receivers whose appointment was confirmed Thursday morning by United States district court here by Judge Sibley are expected to take charge within a few days. It was stated that appointment of receivers was requested by officials of the company. The retail paint store operated by the company at 27 North Forsyth street also continued business as usual.

The appointment of Charles G. Wilson, of New York, and Arthur C. Van derbilt, of Newark, as receivers for the Southern Cotton Oil company was confirmed by Judge Sibley, as was the appointment of Wilson and Vanderbilt, with W. W. Banks, of Atlanta, as receivers for the defunct Virginia-Carolina Chemical company. Judge Sibley named the Atlanta and Lowry National bank as the depository for funds of the receivers.

Candler, Thomson and Hirsch, and Little, Powell, Smith and Goldstein, appeared as counsel for the plaintiffs, and Spalding, McDougald and Sibley represented the defendants.

FLOOD OF CHANGE HITS SHOALS BILL

Washington, March 6.—Close general debate in the house on Henry Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals today opened the way for a flood of amendments offered as consideration of the McKenzie bill, which would authorize its acceptance, was begun by section.

A variety of proposals to make drastic changes in the terms of the proposed contract were submitted, with representatives indicating that many more would be offered tomorrow when consideration of the measure is resumed. None of the amendments offered today was put to a vote.

Probability that more than a score of amendments would be offered caused leaders to doubt whether a final vote on the McKenzie measure could be reached before Saturday.

In brief those seeking to amend the McKenzie bill would place the Detroit manufacturer under jurisdiction of the Federal Water Power act and limit lease to 50 instead of 100 years, and make the lease binding not only on the corporation to be formed by Mr. Ford but also the manufacturer himself.

Opponents also would have specific in the measure that Mr. Ford be compelled to generate surplus power for sale and that this be made available at least 200 miles from the Shoals properties, that the nitrate plants be leased instead of sold; and that more binding guarantee as to the manufacture of fertilizer be required.

PARK HEADS PREPARE TO FIGHT INJUNCTION

City Attorney James L. Mayson will defend the park committee of city council against injunction proceedings brought against it by unsuccessful bidders for the city park concessions, it became known Thursday following a conference between members of the committee and Mayor Sims.

Mr. Mayson will contend the acceptance of L. O. Beall's bid and rejection of all other bids by the committee was entirely legal, inasmuch as the committee, through paid advertisements, had reserved the right to reject "any and all bids."

Forbidden by the injunction to take any action concerning the concessions, the committee was not called to order, but resolved itself into an informal conference during which city attorneys questioned them as to the exact procedure under which the bids were awarded.

A cross-bill to the injunction was filed in Fulton superior court Thursday by L. O. Beall, the successful bidder. Mr. Beall secured a temporary injunction against the committee, restraining it from interfering in any way with the present status of his contract. A hearing on the cross-bill was set for Saturday. The hearing on the original injunction, brought by M. L. Haney, R. J. Spiller, W. L. Sexton and C. L. Chismore, is set for hearing on March 22.

Interest Keeps Growing in 1924 Season of Opera

With the season seat sale for Atlanta's 1924 grand opera season opening next Monday, interest in the great annual event, already greater than ever before in the thirteen years of local opera history, is increasing.

The sale of season tickets as usual will be opened at the Cable Piano company's store. This year, however, instead of patrons having to wait in line stretching through the main store and into the street, arrangements have been made to admit prospective seat purchasers to Cable Hall on the second floor, where they may be comfortably seated while they wait. Applicants will be admitted to the box office proper in strict rotation, as they arrive.

Several changes have been made in the scale of prices this year, with a view to making the cost of different classes of seats more equitable.

Opera week begins on April 21. Never before has such a popular program of opera, to be sung by the greatest stars of the singing stage, been arranged. This fact, accounts, in the opinion of officials of the Music Festival association, for the unprecedented demand for tickets which is already being evidenced.

The opera to be presented here include "Martha," "Il Trovatore," "Rigoletto," "Faust," "Cavalleria Rusticana," "Il Pagliaccio," "Fedora," and "Boris Godunov."

Out-of-town patrons may secure seats by writing C. B. Bidwell, treasurer Atlanta Music Festival association, and enclosing certified check or money order, together with first and second choice of seat location. There must also be enclosed stamped, addressed envelope for reply. These applications will be filled in strict rotation as they are received, choice blocks of seats having been set aside for visitors.

Dr. Abercrombie has accepted the appointment, and will leave for Europe about April 15. Officials of the state board, of which Robert F. Maddox, of Atlanta, is chairman, expressed themselves Thursday as regarding this appointment as an unusual compliment to the Georgia board and the work it has been doing.

50 HOUSES DESTROYED BY QUAKE AT SAN JOSE

Panama, March 6.—About 50 small houses were destroyed at San Jose, the Costa Rican capital, in Tuesday's earthquake, according to private dispatches received here. All the foreign residents are safe, and the advice reiterates that there was no loss of life. Communication with the Pacific side is interrupted but that with the Atlantic ports is normal. Panama Canal records show the shock was fully as severe as that of 1910, in which Cartago was badly damaged, but messages from Costa Rica indicate that the property loss was not so extensive.

TWO MEN BOUND OVER UNDER STAMP TAX LAW

J. J. Jackson, of 178 Decatur street, and Isaac Frankel, of 811 Peachtree street, were bound over to city criminal court Thursday on a charge of violating the new cigarette stamp tax law. They were tried in municipal court, both being charged with having sold cigarettes without affixing necessary stamps.

Jackson told the court that his clerk sold the cigarettes without affixing stamps, while Frankel declared that he had used all his stamps and sold a few packages before he secured a new supply from the state revenue department.

Il. Grover Bell, of the revenue department, who is in charge of investigating the use of the stamps by dealers in the Fulton county district, appeared as prosecutor. Mr. Bell stated that many dealers are failing to cancel stamps which they affix to the cigarettes. This is a violation of the new law in itself, he declared, and dealers are requested to be careful to cancel all stamps attached to packages.

SEEK TO DISCONTINUE STATION AT PIEDMONT

The Southern Railway company has petitioned the Georgia Public Service commission for permission to discontinue its agency station at Piedmont, making that a prepay point instead. Hearing on the petition has been set for March 25.

Four Automobiles Figure in Crash; Nunn Is Injured

Ed J. Nunn, of 210 North Jackson street, restaurant owner, narrowly escaped serious injury Thursday afternoon in a collision in which four automobiles figured in Peachtree road, near Mayson avenue. A thorough examination at Grady showed him to be not dangerously hurt, and he was allowed to go home after treatment.

Nunn, it is claimed, was driving north in Peachtree road, when an unidentified driver of a light car darted out of Mayson avenue, striking Nunn's machine, tossing it against a southbound auto and also one that was parked. Nunn's car was a total wreck.

The driver of the machine that struck Nunn's auto stopped for a few minutes, then speeded off. The license number was obtained by witnesses and furnished police.

J. W. Brown, employee of the Georgia Railway & Power company, who lives at Center Hill, was taken to Davis Fischer hospital Thursday morning, following his injury at Peachtree and North avenue by an automobile driven by a negro, James Newby.

According to information given the police, Brown was flagging a work car across North avenue when the automobile struck him. Doctors at the hospital stated that his injuries consisted of severe lacerations and bruises.

In a smashup Thursday morning between the machine he was driving and a street car at Leonard and Henry streets, it was stated.

R. D. Warren, secretary of the dramatic club of Capitol View Masonic lodge, in making this announcement, stated that this production was last presented October 29, 1923, at a meeting of the Georgia grand lodge in Macon, when an audience of 3,000 packed the theater to witness it.

TO REPORT ON GROWTH OF GEORGIA ASPARAGUS

E. W. Stillwell, of Washington, specialist in market news, is in Atlanta investigating the possibilities of starting a government report on asparagus for the benefit of the asparagus growers of Georgia and South Carolina. The proposed special report, he said, would give market conditions and prices at the principal eastern and mid-western markets.

Growing of asparagus in this section has shown big gains during the last year, it was stated.

The Romance of Atlanta Real Estate

NO TALE of hidden treasure—sparkling jewels and golden doubloons—can compare with the true stories of the magic transformation of raw dirt into gold, brought about by the vast increase in Atlanta's real estate values. Land which sold not long ago for a few dollars an acre is now worth millions.

Beyond the wildest dreams of those early settlers who first conquered the wilderness, and built their homes here, is the magnificent city which has arisen—the Atlanta of today, whose growth and progress has aroused the admiration of the South.

Twenty or thirty years ago, many said that property values in Atlanta had reached the peak, ten years ago they said the same thing. And each time, owners who thought they secured top-notch prices, saw the same land resold in a short while for double the amount.

In the last five years property values as a whole have increased 35% while many specific pieces of real estate have doubled and trebled in value.

What were once outlying farms have become fashionable residential sections as Atlanta has grown northward.

One of the five best retail corners in the world

Incidents of Remarkable Increase in Property Values

IN the history of Atlanta Real Estate there are incidents revealed in which parcels of property have, through the city's growth, achieved relative values in a short space of time which would be almost incredible were they not supported by documentary evidence.

Not many Atlantans passing by Five Points know that Tom Pitt's corner is one of the five best retail corners in the country. In 1845 this corner sold for $130.00. No one knows what it is valued at today, but a small stand 7x9 feet brings $365.00 a month and the tenant paid $1,500.00 for the contract.

Howard Theatre Property

ANOTHER incident revealing the rapid increase in values is the property which is now occupied by the Howard Theatre. In 1852 the administrators of the Hardy Ivy estate sold one acre of land (part of which is now leased by the Howard Theatre Corporation) for $80. Fourteen years later it sold for $15,000. In 1905 part of the property fronting 90 feet on Peachtree Street sold for $97,000 and six years later brought $120,000. A few years ago this same piece of property fronting 90 feet on Peachtree Street was leased to the Howard Theatre Corporation for twenty-five years at a valuation of $625,000; a further stipulation of the lease being the erection of a theatre to cost not less than $250,000 (but in fact cost $750,000) the said building and equipment to revert to the lessor at the expiration of the lease.

These are but two incidents in many. Nearly every piece of downtown property has a similar history, and even outlying property which the city has grown up to, has seen the same miraculous increase in values.

Atlanta Real Estate as Security for 7% First Mortgage Investments

WITH a $27,000,000 building program in 1923, Atlanta ranked as fourth city in the entire South in point of new construction, exceeded only by Washington, Baltimore and St. Louis. Yet the demand for business and living quarters for the daily increase in Atlanta's population grows ever stronger.

For over 58 years this company has been intimately associated with the growth and development of Atlanta real estate. During this time we have made many first mortgages upon property located in Atlanta and other Southern cities without loss to a single investor.

We do not believe that there is a more stable, safer investment in existence than a first mortgage upon a selected piece of income producing property in Atlanta, as issued by this company in the form of Adair Protected Bonds, yielding (at the present time) 7%.

SPLITCH OF OIL ON COOLIDGE ROBE

The president of the United States that even though the president might not know where his secretary was, McLean would at all times know and because the president did not know where Slomp was when he should have known, that he telegraphed to McLean asking him to advise him about the situation and so on.

Suspicion Touches Slomp.
"Suspicion does attach to Slomp," said Senator Lodge, "but I believe in 1919 Slomp was down there in company with Fall, eating 1200 eggs for 12 days at the same table with Neel McLean and with Fall—Slomp cannot give out a statement here that removes the suspicion. I am glad that the senator from Massachusetts had seen the president and has made the statement he has."

"I hope the country will accept it as true, for I do not want my president to be asked to what party he belongs, to be enmeshed in this swirl thing that almost topples down the very pillars upon which this government rests."

Recalls Attacks on Wilson.
Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, followed Senator Harrison and it was during his address that first reference was made to senate attacks against President Wilson. Interrupting the speaker, Senator Caraway asked if the record showed that when President Wilson was being assailed that the senator from Massachusetts came to his defense.

"On the contrary," replied Senator Heflin, "he was leading the charge against him; he was right in the forefront of the fight."
Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, interrupted to say that in 1919 he had "heard the meanest, the most vicious and most insulting attacks that I ever heard fall from mortal lips on the part of Senator Sherman, of Illinois, against the then president of the United States, and not a word of criticism from any republican senator was uttered."

"No, it makes a lot of difference whose or is being gored," responded Senator Heflin.

Heflin Says 'I Told You So.'

"I said some time ago," continued the Alabama senator, "that we had trailed this thing up toward the white house; we had located it in the backyard, and if they did not mind we would get it into the white house. Now we have the operator at the white house and McLean's private operator one and the same man."

"The plot thickens," Mr. Slomp said to Florida for what purpose? I do not think he told the committee for what purpose he went. That is plain talk, too, but I think it is the plain truth. I think Slomp went on a mission, that he was sent to see McLean."

"The president says to McLean: 'See Slomp.' He does not wire Slomp to see McLean, but he wires to the 'big boss' with the cipher code. In his post he has his commission as an agent in the department of justice and a dispenser of patronage in the District of Columbia and the president's warm friend—he wires and asks him to see my secretary and advise me with whom I should confer back here."

Caraway Is Ironic.
The senator from Massachusetts interrupted Senator Caraway, "suggested that the president communicated with McLean in order to reach his secretary, Slomp. I believe the record will show that Slomp was there when he left Washington; he did not expect to see McLean, and his meeting with him was purely accidental. Now I do not like to see Mr. Slomp left in such an embarrassing situation, and I hope somebody will explain his testimony."

Taking exception to Senator Lodge's statement that senate debate in the last few weeks had lowered the traditions of that body, Senator Walsh, of Montana, declared that "everybody understands what is the trouble about the matter."
"The debate has been a serious matter," he said. "It has been in general a recital of revelations made by the public lands committee that have shocked the country and of course have distressed the senator from Massachusetts, and now he seeks to utilize this reverence that the people of the United States have for the office of the president of the United States, and the respect they have for the present incumbent to minimize the effect of the revelations and the disclosures made in the debate in this body with reference thereto."

Dial Cites Precedent.
Referring to Senator Lodge's reference to Senator Tillman, Senator Dial, of South Carolina, declared that "would perhaps have been in better taste for the senator from Massachusetts not to have opened the grave."

"If he is looking for a precedent," Senator Dial said, "under which one senator, or senators, could attack or did attack a president of the United States he would not have to go further back than the last few years, when he and a great many of the senators on his side of the chamber most cruelly and unjustly criticized former President Wilson. They were unrelenting in their efforts to discredit that high official in here for several years. So I think propriety should have led him not to go back for precedents beyond our own term of service in this body."

Senator Caraway brought up the visit of the Senators Fall, republican, New Mexico, and Hitchcock, democrat, Nebraska, made to the white house during the illness of President Wilson to obtain a report as to his condition.

Fall Looked 'Under Covers.'
"I recall if the public prints may be trusted," he said, "that Albert B. Fall assailed in the most vicious language the president of the United States and that the senate appointed him, a known enemy of the president of the United States, to go to his sick chamber and turn back the covers to see whether or not he was feigning illness; to see whether or not he was capable, mentally and physically, of exercising the duties of the president of the United States. The senator from Massachusetts never rose in his place to criticize, condemn or complain about that sort of conduct."

"And now, when somebody calls attention to the fact that the president of the United States is in communication with a man everybody knows is trying to protect people who have sold the public lands of this land, the president of the United States has immediately as his defender the senior senator from Massachusetts, who deprecates, who condemns, who exonerates people who dare to mention that the president might have felt why he should be in communication with a man who was the go-between between Fall and Doheny, the United States senator from the United States, and we all know it now."

Caraway Withdraws Remarks.
After a sharp exchange with Senator Lodge about the Fall visit to President Wilson, Senator Caraway said he wanted to withdraw any language offensive to the republican leader, and then added:

"I do not know anybody who is so little justified in trying to read people a lecture about the sacredness of the president of the United States who everybody knows that Wilson sleeps in his grave tonight from the abuse, the unjustified attacks, launched against him as president of the United States. In defending himself against these attacks, he went to his death."

Recalling Senator Lodge's statement that the president was doing the best he could in the present situation, Senator Caraway referred to the visits of Senators Lodge and Pepper to the white house to urge that Attorney General Daugherty be removed from the cabinet.

"It is a little inconsistent," he said, "when a man is doing the best he can, to go down there and ask him to do something else. Daugherty protested that he did not want to be dropped overboard and the senator from Pennsylvania was quoted as saying that the question of whether it is just or not is not the question. The point is, it is for the good of the nation."

Why McLean So Popular?
"Now I want to say another thing about the president and his telegram. I do not know why it was that everybody, including Burns and Maryand Duck, who wanted to get in touch with anybody in Florida, had to call up by the senate finance committee today in starting work on the revenue bill.

Joseph McCoy, government actuary, later presented estimates on the effect of the measure passed by the house on government revenue, showing the bill would result in a loss of $44,270,000 in revenue in the calendar year 1925, compared with the amount which would be collected under the present law.

Chairman Smoot was estimated this would fall by $100,000,000 of raising sufficient revenue to operate the government regardless of a bonus measure or other special appropriation bills. It was planned to hear Secretary Mellen tomorrow, but the appearance of the treasury secretary has been postponed until Monday.

Hearing To Be Held Daily.
Actual consideration of the bill will be continued daily, under plans announced by Mr. Smoot, and he predicted a bill would be reported in about three weeks.

The estimates prepared by the treasury on the house bill showed that the increase in the estate tax would get $12,000,000 and the new gift tax $2,000,000, annually. The increase voted in the tax on playing cards, it was estimated, would bring $700,000 additional revenue, while the repeal of the stamp tax on drafts and promissory notes would cut off $2,150,000.

Reduction of the taxes on automobile trucks and tires and accessories made by the house, it was estimated, would result in a loss of $25,000,000.

Points Possible Confusion.
Losses under the Longworth compromise income tax schedule adopted would amount to $130,000,000 in the normal taxes and $150,000,000 in the surtax rates.

In asking immediate action on the proposal to reduce taxes payable this year, the treasury explained that confusion was bound to result if the action was taken after March 15, requiring refunds on all first installments paid. It also was said that member of the finance committee, said it was the opinion of democrats the resolution should be allowed, perhaps as soon as possible, but that it was probable they would contend for a reduction on the basis of the democratic income tax rates rather than on a flat 25 per cent reduction on taxes under the present law.

Should senate democrats carry out this plan, the entire income tax fight would be brought to a head, and leaders predicted such a contest would prevent action before March 15.

Hello! Smith's Drug Store?

Haven't you often desired an article, but have hesitated to order by phone for fear of careless or indifferent service?

Perhaps in the past you've telephoned, and it came tardily, or substitution was made—or maybe the order was overlooked entirely.

Some people think small orders are too much trouble to send and are therefore not appreciated, and they hesitate to phone on that score.

Our telephone service is a strong feature of our two stores. Here you are answered by courteous clerks who are thoroughly conversant with our merchandise and prices. You feel that your order will secure personal attention.

Just for instance: suppose you wish a box of Coty's face powder. It is sent to our delivery department, and put on the first truck that makes your vicinity, and you receive it without a moment's delay.

JAS. L. BEAVERS
Candidate for Sheriff

Platform: Chief Beavers proposes that until the law is changed he will accept a salary of $7,500. He will employ competent deputies at reasonable compensation.

He will pay all the profits of the office to the county, and if they refuse to receive it, he will deposit it in bank in trust for the county until the law is changed.

He will legally alienate the title from himself and his heirs forever to this money.

Have you noticed how every candidate for every office has sought to claim the shelter of Chief Beavers' platform? It is because they have found out that the people understand the subterfuge which some of the candidates have adopted, and it is because they now realize that Chief Beavers' platform is going to end the fee system now—and that it is a sure winner.

We have been told by a number of men who are employed at the Southern Railway Shops that on April 21, 1916, while making a speech at the shops Captain Lowry stated that his opponent, Mr. Wheeler Mangum, had held the sheriff's office for eight years and that he (Captain Lowry) felt that eight years were long enough for any man to hold public office, and Captain Lowry promised that if he were elected and should afterwards be endorsed for another term he would not offer for re-election, but would step down and out. Captain Lowry has served eight years just as Mr. Mangum had when he made the statement.

We want to ask Captain Lowry if he made the statement and if he meant to carry it out when he made it—and if he means to carry it out now?

You can surely help to END THE FEE SYSTEM NOW by voting for Chief Beavers.

Love Before First Sight CUPID CLINCHES VICTIM ALMOST IN INFANCY Is Newest Speed Stunt

BY HARLAN S. MILLER.

Chicago, March 6.—Love at first sight? Too slow, too slow! Why wait?

A psychological study of the matchless dementia by Howard R. Mayberry, professor of psychology at the University of Chicago, led to his announcement Thursday that love happens sooner than that.

In fact, Mayberry declared that any man who isn't in love with his sweetheart long before he gets his first glimpse of her is a laggardly, lazy lover indeed.

Once upon a time love at first sight was regarded as modern, minute, time-saving, pace-hat-kills discovery. Comes now Prof. Mayberry and calls it old-fashioned and conservative. Says Mayberry:

"A man does not fall in love with a woman at first sight; he falls in love with her before ever seeing her. Henceforth it will be fashionable for a lady, upon meeting a gentleman, to cogitate silently:

"I wonder how long he has been in love with me, if any?" In his best scientific manner, the professor explains:

"Every man has a mental image of the woman he would like to marry, and sight."

an ideal that for him implies all that is fine in womanhood.

"Love at first sight? Bosh! When he meets this woman, in reality he has been in love with her for years."

Thus, a youth begins falling in love with the as yet unseen partner of his mature years while still a youngster. He acquires a distaste, perhaps, for blondes, Titian's and the pre-fers the Aspatia type to the Cleopatra type; or he learns that a certain sort of woman matches his neckties and his general color scheme best.

"Yes," avers Prof. Newberry, "often a man takes his own complexion into consideration, quite without knowing it."

"Comes a day when the young man, thoroughly in love by this time, but with no one in particular, meets the ideal of his gathering infatuation"—not so new, perhaps, but these psychologists are always stumbling on something with great surprise.

"He seeks her society," the professor delineated. "He finds her behavior, her thoughts, her character, as well as her beauty, have long been by him beloved."

"Love comes as a confirmation. He transfers his love without knowing it from the image to the reality."

"First sight? Better call it second sight."

Dixie Bid for Muscle Shoals Branded as Move of 'Trust'

Madden Defends Ford Offer and Cites Record of Southern Power Companies in Speech.

Washington, March 6.—Chairman Madden of the house appropriations committee, author of the amendment to the McKenzie bill providing for replacement of the Gorgas steam power plant, made an appeal today for favorable action on Ford's offer.

With his plea he coupled a bitter attack on the southern power companies that are seeking control of the Muscle Shoals project.

"When congress comes to decide in whose hands it shall place the people's water power and the people's nitrate plants at Muscle Shoals," said Mr. Madden, "it is necessary to inquire most carefully into the character of the bidders, their business standing and integrity and whether they are worthy to be trusted with these properties, involving the national safety of the country in time of war and an ample and cheaper supply of fertilizer for the farmers in time of peace."

CRISP ASKS NAMES OF GUILTY SOLONS

Washington, March 6.—A movement gained ground in the house today to establish the identity of the two representatives charged in the report of a Chicago grand jury with being guilty of bribery.

Representative Crisp, democrat of Georgia, introduced a resolution today calling on President Coolidge to inform the house of the names of the two representatives involved.

The Crisp resolution pointed out that "great publicity has been given throughout the United States to the effect that two members of the house have been guilty of corrupt practice and of the trust reposed in them."

Until these two members of congress are named the whole body of the house is under suspicion and a great injustice is done the house of representatives collectively.

Under the resolution the president would be requested to transmit the names of the two representatives, "if not incompatible with the public interest."

POINCARÉ THREAT STIRS COMMITTEE

Paris, March 6.—(By the Associated Press.)—Premier Poincaré's ultimatum to the finance committee of the senate tonight that his cabinet would resign unless the committee approved his fiscal measures, caused the committee to announce it will again have a conference with the premier and minister of Finance de Lasteyrie tomorrow or Saturday in an attempt to reach an agreement. If this comes about the final bills will come up for discussion in the senate next Tuesday.

The measures in question providing for fiscal economy and additional 20 per cent taxation, have been voted by the chamber. They are designed to balance the French budget and improve the franc on the international exchange market.

M. Poincaré insists that the measures must be voted without changes as received from the chamber. Reporting on the measure the finance committee decided against the three main provisions, namely, reduction of expenditures by governmental decree without authority from parliament, a 20 per cent increase in taxation and introduction of a system of so-called coupons to prevent frauds by security holders in connection with their income taxes.

Like the widows of other presidents, Mrs. Edith Bolling Wilson will have franking mail privileges under a bill passed by the senate and house.

Ancient Custom Revived as Tomb Of Tut Is Opened

Luxor, Egypt, March 6.—The re-opening of the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen today for inspection by some 200 visitors, guests of the Egyptian government, was preceded by the picturesque ceremony, following the custom in the days of the pharaohs, of sacrificing two bulls in the center of the town. The first party, made up of ministers and high officials, was present.

Thousands of natives and sheiks in gorgeous costumes crowded the gaily beflagged streets, singing to the accompaniment of Egyptian instruments. After the sacrifice, the government party was entertained by feasts of horsmanship, performed by the sheiks.

The party then was taken across the Nile to the Valley of the Kings. Groups of eight entered the tomb where the lid of the sarcophagus has been removed since the Egyptian government took charge. A platform was erected and from this the visitors had an excellent view of the gold-covered figure of the pharaoh.

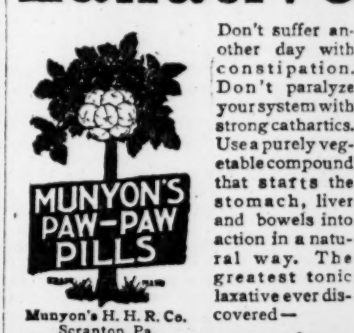

Neither Howard Carter, the chief excavator, nor any of his staff were present.

The tomb will be closed until March 10, when it will be re-opened for 10 days to permit the public to inspect it.

which would undoubtedly have been the case if he had shot himself. Chaffin told officers that he notified Mrs. Sewell, and later called local funeral director. When questioned regarding his failure to notify police, he said, "I don't know. I just didn't think of it." He later stated that Miss Sewell objected to calling the police, as she did not wish to have them in the house unless necessary desiring to keep the affair as quiet as possible.

Had Attack of Flu. Questioned further, Chaffin told that Sewell had an attack of flu about a month before his death, and he since suffered terrific pains in his head and spells of despondency.

Both Chaffin and Mrs. Sewell admitted that Sewell was usually a work at the time of day at which the shooting occurred, and were at a loss to explain why he was in the house at the time.

Chaffin testified Saturday at a coroner's inquest, telling practically the same story that he related Thursday night, and the jury returned a suicide verdict.

RECEIVED CHECK AFTER ALLEGED ATTACK

"You entered that room?" asked Mr. Arnold.

"No, sir. I did not," shot back the witness, emphatically.

"Well, how long after this was it that you had the check for $25,000 which you say Mr. Candler forced you to tucked in your pocket?"

"I couldn't say exactly," said Mr. Byfield.

About Ten Minutes.

"Don't you know, Mr. Byfield, that not more than ten minutes had elapsed after you entered that room and found Mr. Candler that you asked for that money, went out, called a ship officer and asked him to witness your receipt of that $25,000 check as settlement and satisfaction for Mr. Candler's actions toward your wife?"

The witness admitted that it was about ten minutes, he supposed.

Another development was the introduction of a letter, signed by Byfield, denouncing Candler from all blame in the matter. Mr. Byfield contended that he signed this letter under pressure and fear of violence from men named Dreyer and Bernstein, who, he claimed, were friends of Candler on the boat and introduced to him by Candler. Defense attempted, by examination, to show that Byfield had

HOW DOCTORS
TREAT COLDS
AND THE FLU

First Step in Treatment Is Calotabs, the Purified and Refined Calomel Tablets That Are Nauseless, Safe and Sure.

Doctors have found by experience that no medicine for colds, coughs, sore throats and influenza can be depended upon for full effectiveness unless the liver is made thoroughly active. That is why the first step in the treatment is the nauseless calomel tablets called Calotabs, which are free from the sickening and weakening effects of the old style calomel. Doctors also point out the fact that an active liver goes a long way towards preventing influenza and colds and is one of the most important factors in enabling the body to ward off pneumonia.

(One or two Calotabs at bedtime, with a swallow of water—that's all, in adults, no nausea nor the slightest tightness with your eating, pleasure in work. Next morning your cold has vanished, your liver is active, your system is purified, and you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Genuine Calotabs are sold in original sealed packages, price fifty-five cents for the large, family package; ten cents for the small, vest-pocket size—tablets.)

Swollen veins are dangerous and often fatal. Physicians recommend Emerald Oil as it is used in hospital practice and small bottle will act a long time, because it is very concentrated and a little goes a long way. So marvelously powerful is Emerald Oil that swollen glands and even cancer disappear when used steadily (tablets).

MAIER & BERKELE, Inc.

Established 1887

owed Mr. Candler's bank $10,000. The witness did not.

The attorney traced the trip through New York and the Berengaria deck plan and plans of the Berengaria deck plan were produced—upon which attorney and witness located the staterooms of Candler and the Byfields.

Her bed was directly in front of the stateroom door. Byfield's to the right-hand corner, the testimony had it. Byfield's acquaintance with the men with whom he played cards was questioned by Mr. Arnold. She said she saw the Candler children several times a day and frequently went to their room, she said. The children were up almost every night until the grown folks retired, but not the last night aboard ship, she testified.

A party given by Mr. Schendel the last night at sea, was brought up and Mr. Arnold immediately switched to the question of round trip tickets and then back to the party in a private dining room—where all except the children had champagne.

Had Been Humiliated.

Mrs. Byfield declared that the case had been productive of such humiliation as to "break her heart," and she continued, "wherever I go, I am pointed out and talked about; even my friends who believe in me, who know that I have done nothing wrong, look at me with a look of pity."

Her entrance here into the heavy contest, last June, a year after the ocean episode, she said, was just something to take her mind off the case, for she had suffered since the fateful trip. She admitted, under questioning, that Rudolf Valentino, the sheik of the screen, had adjudged her the most beautiful of all the women entered and that winning had procured for her the position she held prior to the present trial—with a company manufacturing beauty cream, for which she has been a demonstrator.

Separated From Husband.

She testified, too, that she had been separated from her husband since June 7, last year, when she went to New York to take up her connection with the beauty cream company. "Mr. Byfield was not making any money and I needed something to take my mind off my worry, so I took the job so that I could be occupied and be independent."

The plaintiff's counsel attempted to show that Mr. Candler was partially undressed when Byfield entered the room, while the defense sought to show Candler's alleged actions improbable, since Byfield had told him only three or four moments before that she (Byfield) was even then preparing to go to his and Mrs. Byfield's stateroom.

The plaintiff wished to prove that Candler's presence in Mrs. Byfield's stateroom was utterly unwarranted, while the defense attempted to show that since they were traveling as a party, had staterooms almost adjacent, and were informal in the matter of mutual visits, it was nothing unusual that he should be there.

Afternoon Session.

Judge and jury appeared and the afternoon session was resumed at 1:40 o'clock after the judge had given verdicts in two or three smaller cases—which intervened to add to the crowd's impatience.

Upon order of the court, all boys and girls under 21 years of age were excluded from the room.

Mrs. Byfield resumed the stand and Mr. Slaton resumed his questioning.

The witness stated that Mr. Candler and Mr. Byfield had a fight in her stateroom and that Byfield declared he was killed. Candler agreed to "take care of the business," she said. "He said he would give me $25,000."

No check was passed, she said. The ship arrived at Cherbourg at about 3 o'clock in the afternoon and it was several minutes after the tender had left the Berengaria for shore before she spoke to her husband, she said.

It was then, she said, that Mr. Byfield declared he knew she was not to blame for the stateroom episode.

"He said he knew I would not have asked him to come back to the room after he had left if there had been any frame-up with Mr. Candler," she continued.

Says She Wore Veil.

After telling how it was necessary for her to wear, in Paris, a heavy black veil and dark glasses to hide her bruised face and eyes, the witness broke out sobbing again. She remained ill in her hotel room during her Paris stay, except the last day, according to her testimony.

"On the return trip on the Aquitania," she said, her condition was such as to cause doctors to tell her she should go to a hospital.

"After talking to doctors," she said, "I decided home—where I could be taken care of—was the best place for me."

Returning, the witness spent three days in Davis-Eischer sanitarium, Mr. Slaton: "What effect, Mrs. Byfield, has this experience had on your sleep?"

"I have not slept one whole night since it happened, I have been utterly miserable."

Mr. Slaton: "Have you been humiliated?"

Objection arose from defense, but the judge ruled a reply was permissible.

"I have been so humiliated it has broken my heart. Wherever I go, I am pointed out; my former friends have forsaken me and will not go near me, even though they believe in me."

Mrs. Byfield Cross Examined.

Reuben Arnold, for the defense, took the witness.

Witness said she first met Mr. Candler in the summer of 1921, and afterward they frequently visited the Candler race track in Grand Hills. Events leading up to the European trip were recounted.

Growth of the Byfield's business was sketched in the testimony, the witness stating that in 1920 her husband made about $28,000; in 1921, $15,000; and in 1922—she did not know how much.

Mr. Candler gave him the money, in exchange for a note, so that Byfield would not have to remove the cash from the business, she testified.

The amount was $24,000, she said—and Mr. Arnold asked the witness if she knew that at time that Byfield predicted a motion picture career for her.

Valentino picked you out as the prettiest girl in the auditorium—didn't he?"

"Yes."

She said she later went to work with the beauty cream company, but had since severed her connection with it—as special demonstrator and chaperon for the girls.

"You're going back with them when this trial's over, aren't you?"

"I don't know."

"Well, you are not going back with Mr. Byfield, are you?"

"I hardly think so."

Byfield Separated.

The witness also testified that she and her husband separated June 7, 1923, at the time she went to New York after winning the local beauty contest.

In rebuttal examination, Mr. Slaton brought out the testimony that Mrs. Byfield entered the beauty-clay business and left the city "after two years of fortune to find something to occupy her mind." She also said that Byfield's business was hurt and she wanted to make her own money.

Mr. Byfield was called to the stand. Mr. Slaton: "How long have you known Walter Candler?"

"About three years."

The attorney's questions brought out testimony that the two families had been closely related, socially and in a business way. His bank book was introduced in evidence—showing deposits made while he was in Europe on the eventful trip, by persons left in charge of his business.

All his obligations to Mr. Candler's bank and to other people had been paid, said the witness, who traced the growth of the automobile business in which the witness was engaged.

Mr. Candler suggested the European trip and insisted for two or three weeks before he finally agreed, testified Mr. Byfield.

He said that Candler offered to pay Mrs. Byfield's way, so that she could "look after the children."

Candler suggested in New York that Byfield go to Detroit then to see about getting an automobile agency and that Mrs. Byfield go on to Europe with him and the children, said Byfield.

Turns Down Suggestion.

This suggestion to which Byfield said he attached no significance at the time, was turned down by both him and Mrs. Byfield, said the witness.

His testimony concerning the events of the night before the Berengaria landed at Cherbourg concurred with that of Mrs. Byfield. He said that after and most of the party, thought she and Byfield had left for the night when they left the party.

"About what time was it when Mr. Candler came to your room?" Mr. Arnold asked.

"About ten minutes after Byfield left—and I thought it was my husband, I said, 'Walter, Candler and I received no answer from Mr. Candler, finally answered and I recognized him, I asked 'Walter, what do you want?'

The witness said there was no light that night when she was in the room, or for him to come to yours, was it?" said the attorney.

"Well, I don't know."

Witness Is Quizzed.

Mr. Arnold quizzed the witness in an evident effort to prove that she and most of the party, thought she and Byfield had left for the night when they left the party.

"About what time was it when Mr. Candler came to your room?" Mr. Arnold asked.

"About ten minutes after Byfield left—and I thought it was my husband, I said, 'Walter, Candler and I received no answer from Mr. Candler, finally answered and I recognized him, I asked 'Walter, what do you want?'

The witness said there was no light that night when she was in the room, or for him to come to yours, was it?" said the attorney.

"Well, I don't know."

Byfield Comes In.

Just about that time Byfield came in, she said, and when he switched on the light and remonstrated with Candler, the latter fell to the floor and said:

"Walter, I'm drunk."

"They were all sober, she reiterated. "My husband began to strike me after he tried to eject Candler from the room."

Her husband struck her in the face eight or ten times "as hard as he could," she said.

The witness attempted to show that the fight between the two men was precipitated by Candler's efforts to protect her, but the witness would not answer the question in the affirmative.

The witness, under rapid fire questioning by Mr. Arnold, reiterated her declaration that Candler made the voluntary offer of $25,000 and that Byfield refused it at that time, saying he "wouldn't touch a thing" of Candler's.

She did not know whether Byfield later took the $25,000 or not.

Then next morning when she called for Candler, it was for the purpose of having Candler straighten the matter out with her husband—exonerating her from blame.

She didn't remember Candler saying he would see that she got home all right—after Byfield had left the night before—following the episode.

Her testimony regarding their journey to Paris was the same as before—until the admission that in Paris Byfield told her he had a check from Candler for $25,000.

"When was it you forgave Byfield?" asked Mr. Arnold.

"I never have completely forgiven him," she declared.

"What caused you to come back to Atlanta?" the attorney asked.

"I was ill and wanted to be with my father and mother."

A chart, taken during her illness at Davis-Eischer, was introduced by Mr. Arnold.

Mr. Arnold asked if she hadn't won a beauty prize June 7, and if Mr. Rudolf Valentino had chosen her as a woman of rare beauty and predicted a motion picture career for her.

Valentino picked you out as the prettiest girl in the auditorium—didn't he?"

"Yes."

She said she later went to work with the beauty cream company, but had since severed her connection with it—as special demonstrator and chaperon for the girls.

"You're going back with them when this trial's over, aren't you?"

"I don't know."

TWO AMERICANS TO CARDINALATE

Rome, March 6.—(By the Associated Press.)—Two American prelates will be elevated to the cardinalate at a secret consistory to be held March 24. They are Archbishop Hayes, of New York, and Archbishop Mundelein, of Chicago.

This announcement was made at the Vatican today. Pope Pius in giving two additional Red Hats to the United States was moved by the generous response of the American people to the appeals for the suffering states of Europe.

The pontiff is said also to have desired to honor the people of the United States for their spirit of self-sacrifice and loyalty.

Admired Americans' Work.

Pope Pius has long admired the work of Archbishop Hayes and Archbishop Mundelein, and after due consideration of the claims of other candidates for increases in their memberships in the sacred college he decided the United States most deserving and that Archbishop Hayes and Archbishop Mundelein were well fitted to be honored.

The Vatican expresses the view that the addition of two new American cardinals to the sacred college will add strength to the highest church council, as well as give the United States more even representation.

Others May Be Appointed.

It was recognized that New York, because of its importance as the metropolis, should have a cardinal, but that the rest of the country could not be neglected in the bestowal of red hats that Chicago, the center of such important territory could not longer be denied the honor.

Archbishop Hayes and Archbishop Mundelein are expected to reach Rome March 17.

It is certain that additional red hats will be allotted at the coming consistory, but the Vatican is maintaining the closest secrecy concerning the names.

Mrs. Hurd Meets Planning To Cut F. Kair Breaks Miss Collett Down on Harvard World's Record

Bellair Heights, Fla., March 6.—Miss Glenna Collett of Providence and Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Merion Cricket, met here tomorrow in the finals of the annual Bellair women's championship golf tournament. Miss Collett and Mrs. Hurd met here in the finals of last year's tournament, and Mrs. Hurd won. Both are former national women champions. Mrs. Hurd won in the semifinals today from Mrs. G. H. Stetson of Huntington Valley, 4 to 2. Mrs. Hurd had an early lead of two holes, but Mrs. Collett was even at the sixth. The match was even at the ninth, but from this hole on Mrs. Hurd left few openings and forced ahead.

Cambridge, Mass., March 6.—Curriculum of athletic activities at Harvard was indicated as a possibility in a brief statement issued yesterday by J. W. D. Seymour, secretary, for information at the university. The statement said: "There is a feeling at Harvard that too much attention is being paid to intercollegiate athletic contests and that the schedules of athletic teams are excessive."

Chicago, March 6.—Individual bowling in the twenty-fourth annual tournament of the American Bowling Congress was featured here today by the rolling of Frank Kair, of Chicago, who established a new world's record when he hit 732 with games with 246, 275, 211. The former mark was 729, made by Willie Lundgren, Chicago, in the A. C. C. tournament at Toledo two years ago. This mark also resulted in Kair taking the lead in the all-event standings. He rolled 633 with his team last night and 516 in the doubles today for a total of 1,149.

Miss Pricilla Maxwell of Hartford, forced Miss Collett to the home green. Both were out in 42 and all square at the turn. At the thirteenth Miss Collett missed a fourteen-inch putt on the fourteenth hole but a stroke in the palmist. Miss Collett took the long sixteenth hole with a par five but lost the seventeenth when she put her second shot into a sand trap. On the eighteenth hole her drive was fully three hundred yards, considered one of the best drives ever made here by a woman. Miss Maxwell lost a chance to halve the hole when she drove her second shot into a sand trap.

"Some modifications are contemplated, but as yet no final action has been taken by the committee on the regulation of athletic sports at Harvard."

In addition to the change in the singles standing made by Kair were three others. J. B. Bamber of Chicago, hit 426 for fourth place with games of 263, 216 and 257. Rudy, another local bowler, rolled 667 to tie for sixth place with Cook, of Jamesville, Bowling of Chicago, turned in games of 205, 221 and 224 for a total of 650 which placed eighth on the list.

No More Gray Hair—Says Science

Wonderful Clean, Colorless Liquid Restores Original Color

Results in a Week
Science again has scored a triumph in the discovery of a very remarkable liquid known as Kolor-Bak. If you are gray, just apply this liquid to the hair and scalp and your hair will soon take on the actual color it had in the past. Not a trace of grayness will remain. Kolor-Bak comes in the form of a clean, colorless liquid, containing properties which quickly restore the lost color to the hair and give it renewed vigor. And note that the one preparation is for all colors of hair. No special solution required for each color—no samples of hair required. You will find also that with Kolor-Bak the hair has the same shade throughout. It does not appear streaked, faded or dyed. Every scientist, every physician, knows that gray hair is hair that has ceased to receive its normal supply of coloring matter or pigment from certain tiny cells (called follicles or papillae) in the scalp, because these cells have become inactive from illness, shock of some kind, scalp disease, dandruff, infection, neglect of the hair or lack of circulation, etc. But no matter what the cause of the grayness, it is simply amazing to see how it disappears when Kolor-Bak is used. It is a proved substitute for the natural pigmentation.

Echols County Trial Of Conspiracy Cases Will Close Today

Valdosta, Ga., March 6.—Case against 21 Echols county cattlemen, being tried for alleged conspiracy to violate the federal cattle dipping law, will go to the jury on Saturday morning, it was stated tonight, by lawyers conducting the proceedings.

Judge Barrett, who is presiding, announced that two sessions of court will be held tomorrow so as not to keep the jury together over another Sunday.

In addition to testimonial evidence introduced by the defense today to prove alibis for various alleged conspirators and to defeat previous testimony of prosecution witnesses, an effort was made to show that the killing of Max Lochridge, during the alleged "vats" in the county, was justifiable homicide.

Defense witnesses testified that Lochridge made threats repeatedly against Mann Carter, who was charged with killing Lochridge, and the defense announced it proposes to show that Lochridge was in the act of drawing his revolver to carry out the threat when Carter shot him.

Regarding indictments against three government employees in Echols county, J. J. Howell, a merchant of Howell Station, testified that the men came to his house, placed him under arrest and kept him prisoner for some time. He said he was refused bond and that they exhibited no charge or warrant against him. They refused to give their names and showed him a number on a badge, merely saying they were looking for undipped cattle, the witness said.

Later, he said, he learned that the men were Max Lochridge, W. G. Counts and Lon Archer and he went before the grand jury that indicted them.

CITY-MANAGER PLAN URGED FOR SAVANNAH

Savannah, Ga., March 6.—(Special.)—D. F. Garland, of Dayton, Ohio, addressed a great mass meeting of citizens assembled under the auspices of the "Peoples' Forum" of the Young Men's Dynamo of the Savannah board of trade here tonight on the "Commission Form of Government." The event was sponsored by civic luncheon clubs, which have been on record actively for some time as favoring a new business plan of city government.

Dr. Garland's argument for the new plan is that responsibility can be placed on a city manager and the buck is not easily passed. He is president of the Dayton Research association of the Community Chest of his city, of the Good Roads League, Associated Charities, and Good Health association.

Officers ordered to post at Screven.

Roy Dorsey's Reply To Five Questions Asked by the Atlanta League of Women Voters

Atlanta League of Women Voters, Mrs. Sanford Gay, President. Ladies:

I have received your letter of February 21, enclosing list of questions on which you say the members of your organization desire information, and stating that the League will appreciate my co-operation in enabling it to bring before the public the principal issues of the present campaign.

Your first question is: "Do you hereby recommend to the representatives of Fulton County in the General Assembly of Georgia and to the General Assembly of Georgia that the office you seek be placed on a salary basis at the commencement of the coming term?"

"Glad to Do Again What I Have Done Before"
In May, 1922, I appeared before the Fulton County Grand Jury and aided that body in its study of the fee system. Out of that investigation grew the present movement, resulting then in a bill which later was introduced in the General Assembly and came within four votes of passage. I recommended then, to our local representatives, the support of that measure. I shall be glad to do again what I have done before.

Your second question is: "Are you willing to use your influence and efforts in a proper way to aid the passage of the special bills and the constitutional amendment which may be required for the above purpose?"

"No Other Method is Possible"
I am. Appropriate legislation not only MAY be required. Beyond the shadow of a doubt it WILL be required. No other method of attaining the purpose is possible.

Your third question is: "If for any reason the fee system is not abolished at the commencement of the coming term, will you urge on the General Assembly that the change be made at the earliest possible date?"

"Can Be Made Effective Next January"
I will. There is no reason why the law cannot be changed this summer and made effective next January.

Your fourth question is: "If elected, will you voluntarily go on a salary January 1, 1925, and turn over all funds accruing from fees in excess of your salary and the expenses of your office to the County Commissioners?"

I will serve for a salary when the law puts my office on a salary basis. I am a candidate for re-election as solicitor of the Criminal Court of Atlanta. The function of this office is law enforcement. Knowing the law, I certainly would not violate it in order to procure my re-election.

An affirmative answer to this question would be an offer of money in exchange for votes; illegal, immoral, contrary to public morals and public policy; impossible of performance; impossible of enforcement; would subject me and all who might connive with me therein to prosecution under the laws of Georgia; and would disqualify me from assuming or holding the office.

"A Thing Abhorrent to Moral Standards"
In its true aspect, this proposition would be a thing abhorrent to our moral standards, and for that reason is a thing prohibited by law. No court anywhere in our land has defended or extenuated it. Here is the law:

"It is a matter for the legislature to fix the fees and emoluments of all offices. To permit a candidate to hold out a promise that he will serve for less than the fees or salary fixed by law is to degrade the public service."

"An offer that if elected he will pay into the public treasury all the fees of the office above a certain sum, invalidates his election and disqualifies him for office."

"It tends to corruption. It leads to the election of incompetent and unworthy officers."

"It is more insidious and therefore more dangerous than directly offering money to the voter."

"We would not hold that a man may buy a public office as he would buy a horse at auction. We can never give the sanction of this court to a doctrine so pernicious."

"A public offer by a candidate to the electors, to perform the duties of the office for less than the legal salary or fees, invalidates his election."

"When our elections to fill public offices shall be influenced by pecuniary offers made by the candidates to the electors, a most vital condition of free government will be disregarded. Elections controlled by mercenary considerations speedily and justly fall into public contempt."

Your fifth question is: "In the event that the County Commissioners will not receive these funds, will you deposit them in a savings bank to the credit of the county, agreeing to turn over principal and accrued interest when any legal hindrance to receiving them is removed?"

An affirmative answer to this and the preceding question would be identical in purpose, effect and consequence.

"Not Possible to Remove Legal Hindrance"
Your contingency that the Board of County Commissioners might refuse to receive such funds is well laid. Unquestionably it would refuse to consummate an offense against moral and statutory law or tolerate a doctrine which the courts condemn. For that body to accept would be to receive money that had been offered in exchange for votes, and would subject its members to prosecution.

It would not be possible to remove the legal hindrance against reception by the public treasury of money that had been offered and was being paid in exchange for office. The General Assembly would not sanction or countenance any proposal intending to make legal an agreement that was illegal in its inception. Our Constitution would prohibit it.

I trust that I have answered your questions clearly and fully, and I thank you for the invitation and opportunity to do so. Please do not hesitate to call on me further. To the extent of my personal and official capacity I shall be glad to co-operate with you in arousing public conscience to the dangers contained in a great moral issue that has arisen for the first time in our local history.

Very truly yours,

Herb Pennock Signs Contract

New York, March 6.—Herb Pennock, star southpaw of the New York Yankees' pitching staff, who has been a holdout, today signed his 1924 contract.

Pennock's salary was not made public but it is understood that a compromise was effected on the pitcher's reported demand of $12,000 and the club's salary offer of $8,000. Pennock will leave for New Orleans tomorrow in company with "Whitey" Witt and Joe Muzan.

Renault Issues Firpo Challenge

New York, March 6.—Jack Renault, the Canadian heavyweight champion, has placed a large hunk of himself on his shoulder and "double-dares" Luis Angel Firpo to knock it off, he says in a telegram received here.

Jack boxes Cliff Kieffer Friday night at Minneapolis and then will come here to issue the Argentine giant a challenge more formal. He has been out in the so-called sticks of the boxing game for some time, adding luster to Canadian bank deposits and boosting his string of knockouts the while.

"I'm on the dead square about this challenge," Renault wired. "I know I can beat the big fellow and you can back on me turning the trick. Feeling fine, putting on weight and I'marin' to go."

JEFF SMITH AND JOE LOHMAN WILL CLASH TONIGHT

Nationally Known Boxers
Headline Boxing Program
To Be Staged at Auditorium

Tonight's Program.
Jeff Smith vs. Joe Lohman, 12 rounds.
Irish Benny Cline vs. Chick Branch, 10 rounds.
Boots Antley vs. Columbus, 8 rounds.
Freddie Boorde, 8 rounds.
Benny Reagan vs. Kid Hucklebee, 4 rounds.
Time, 8:30 o'clock.
Place: City Auditorium.
Referee: Fuzzy Woodruff.

Jeff Smith of Bayonne, N. J., and Joe Lohman, who hails from Toledo, Ohio, are scheduled to meet in a 12-round bout tonight at the city auditorium in one of the best fight cards that has been presented to the Atlanta public in many months. In all 34 rounds of fast fighting has been mapped out for fight fans to tonight.

Joe Lohman, a light heavyweight, has fought in Atlanta several times and each time he appeared here his tactics caused the fans to sit up and take notice.

Jeff Smith, while he has never appeared in an Atlanta ring, seems to be a familiar name because of the fact that he was scheduled to appear here last summer against Harry Greb but the bout fell through because Greb had some ailment with one of his arms.

Eight promoters around the city have tried several times to make a match for Smith here, but every time some one of the participants could not appear on the proposed date, but Lohman came to the rescue and announced that he would meet Smith.

Both fighters have been here for a day or so and many fans have already witnessed each boxer workout in a local gymnasium. Both Smith and Lohman appear to be in the best physical condition possible and they are ready for the bell that starts the main fight tonight.

Jeff Smith, who was the first fighter of the two to arrive in the city, gave a sort of informal reception to a few admirers the other afternoon and in his talk several facts concerning his training program were revealed. First he never undertakes any road work. He gives as his reason that it burns up entirely too much energy and every possible bit stored up in the human body is needed for a fight. Second, he never takes a run down before a fight, thus saving some more of the surplus energy that is generally thrown away in getting into condition. One of the main interesting facts about his training is that he never has any water put on him between rounds at a fight.

Lohman In Good Shape.
According to many who have seen both of the fighters perform during the short training period here Lohman is not concerned about how Smith goes about his training but admits that the Jeff will have to use all of his natural and surplus energy in order to stop his punches tonight.

As an opener to the prelims Benny Reagan will mix gloves with Kid Hucklebee in a four-round tilt. Both are known to local fans.

Boots Antley, the fore-handed youth of Columbus, will attempt to stop Freddie Boorde in eight rounds as the second bout of the program. It will be the first time that Freddie has appeared in a local ring in many months and his work against Kid Hucklebee will be watched with interest.

Irish Benny Cline and Chick Branch will furnish the semi-final windup in a 20 that is scheduled to take up 10 rounds provided the fight lasts that long.

There is no need of commenting on the fighting ability of Cline and Branch for both are popular local fighters and will furnish plenty of action which in the ring Cline and Branch have always been favorites but now they are on opposite sides of each other.

Fred Newberry May Be Returned to Crackers

To Fight Joe Lohman
At Auditorium Tonight

Jeff Smith, of Bayonne, N. J., known as "the uncrowned king of the middleweights," who will get in action tonight against Joe Lohman, of Toledo, Ohio, is one of the feature battles of the coming fight season. Smith is well-known here and there is no doubt but what fans will pack the Auditorium tonight.

CONSTITUTION'S DIVING
CUP GOES TO MISS CAWTHON

The amateur diving contests sponsored by the Atlanta Constitution under the direction of Miss Madeline Berlo of Berlo's Diving Girls appearing at Loew's Grand Theater this week, is proving quite popular with the young swimmers and divers of Atlanta. The contest for girls took place last night.

Miss Berlo is holding these contests in connection with her series of diving lessons which appeared last week in the Atlanta Constitution, and takes pains to explain each dive before it is executed.

The beautiful silver cup offered by The Constitution for the winner went to Miss Louise Cawthon, of 671 Lee street. She proved to be a very adept pupil of Miss Berlo's methods and executed the many difficult dives with ease.

The second prize, a beautiful bathing suit offered by Julian Prade's Sporting Goods store, was won by Miss Juliette Wimberly, 133 Lee street.

Both these contestants received full measure of applause from the audience and it was with great difficulty the choice of the winner was made. The last contest takes place tonight at the 6:45 o'clock performance on the stage of Loew's Grand theater. This contest is open for all boy and girl amateur divers in the city. The grand trophy, a magnificent silver cup offered by the Atlanta Constitution, will be given the winner, and a beautiful bathing suit is offered by Julian Prade's Sporting Goods store for the second prize. All contestants are requested to be at the theater at 6:30 o'clock and report to Miss Berlo for final instructions.

ZBYSZKO MAY CONDITION RETIRE AS WRESTLER
OF MORAN
IS GRAVE

Chicago, March 6.—Stanislaus Zbyszko threatens to quit the wrestling game cold and tell what he knows about its inner workings.

Considerably peeved because Ed (Strangler) Lewis and Hugo Steinke defeated him in recent matches through what he declared were "tricks," Zbyszko is demanding return matches with both men. If the promoters keep him from meeting them again, he declares, he will tell some interesting stories about professional wrestling in this country.

Just what Zbyszko's threats mean, he will not divulge. There have been many strange stories in circulation in Chicago for months concerning some of the biggest matches. Some of these stories are amusing. Promoters have discovered that any kind of a match would fill the house, and some of them have acted accordingly.

Orlando, Fla., March 6.—The condition of Pat Moran, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, who is ill in a hospital here, was reported tonight in a statement from his bedside, as very grave.

COBB GIVES YOUNG
PERSONAL ADVICE

Detroit, March 6.—Young pitchers with the Detroit American League club are receiving much attention from Manager Cobb just now, according to reports from the training camp at Augusta. With the exception of Earl Whitehill, who requested that he be given a chance to limber up his arm, none of the veterans have been worked hard as yet.

The bulk of the pitching in the games against Toronto, which open the training series will be carried on by the youngsters, but by the time that series ends on March 29, it is expected those who are to have a regular berth for the season will be selected.

Southpaw Recruit To Join
Squad Should He Fail With
New York Yanks This Season

BY HENRY ALLEN.

Griffin, Ga., March 6.—(Special.)—Fred Newberry, the young southpaw recruit sold to the New York Yankees last summer by the Crackers, will undoubtedly draw one of the pitching assignments from Bert Nichoff during the coming season if he fails to make the grade with Miller Huggins' outfit. Newberry will undoubtedly be returned to the Cracker fold if the going is too steep in the big show.

Newberry it will be remembered was signed during the winter of 1922 by the Crackers and made the trip to the training camp in Florida. Newberry made a great impression with Otto Miller, who handled the managerial duties for the locals, and remained with the squad during the first month of last season.

He was then sent to the Charleston club in the South Atlantic league and went to Macon when that city took over the franchise. Newberry impressed the many big league scouts that made headquarters in this section and is regarded as one of the most promising youngsters that has been unearthed in several years.

The fact that Newberry will be returned to Atlanta should be a relief to the Yanks, bears out the fact that left-handers will be very much in evidence when the Crackers start the grind in April. At present five left-handers have reported to Manager Nichoff, Dick Niehaus, Ray Francis, Jack Slappey, "Lefty" Owens and Bob Teague are already being put through the paces. Teague is the latest addition, having arrived today.

Prospects Are Good.

There is no doubt but what the Crackers will have one of the greatest staffs of slab artists garnered together in some while. Benny Kere and Phil Morrison, two of the right-handers from last year, are to be back at their old positions. George Dumont also will be sent back should he fail to make the grade with the Yanks, as this was the agreement made by Corbett at the time of the transaction. This gives the locals three good right-handers.

Dick Niehaus and Francis will be two of the left-handers, with Newberry, Teague and Slappey to select from.

Fred Spates, a right-hander from Albany, N. Y., also is a very likely looking prospect and should give a good accounting of himself before the final selections are made. Nichoff also has Dorris Miller, Sheppard, and others that are showing promise.

All of the pitching and receiving candidates are in camp with the exception of Johnny Mohardt, Homer Haworth, and Phil Morrison. No word has been received from Mohardt and Haworth, and they should arrive any minute, but Morrison is reported to be sick and will be unable to report for several days.

The candidates were put through another stiff workout today and should be in excellent shape by the time the infielders and outfielders arrive next Monday.

The Toronto club of the International league, which is training in Macon, is the first to be booked for an exhibition game in Griffin. The game is slated for March 19. Four other games will be played and it is believed that Macon, Reading, Pa., and the Philadelphia Athletics will be the others to be booked.

The program that is being followed by the players now in camp will be continued during the remainder of the week, but it is expected a change will be made when the others report.

GOLF "PRO" TAKES UP
WORK AT SAVANNAH

Savannah, Ga., March 6.—(Special.)—Dave Spittel, English golf professional expert, arrived in Savannah today to assume his duties as professional at the Savannah Golf club. He ranks high in his work. He went to Toronto to take the place of Jack Hutchinson when the latter went to England to take part in the open tournament. Spittel served in the Canadian army in the world war and was wounded.

Auto-Photographic Device
May Be Used in Olympic

BY JOHN O'BRIEN.

Paris, March 6.—No runner in the Olympic games competitions here will have a chance to accuse the judges of giving a wrong decision in a close finish if the committee adopts the autophotographic device patented by the Paris photographer, Maurice Branger. It registers automatically and electrically to one-hundredth of a second, making a picture of a finish more reliable than that formed in the eye of the judge.

The apparatus is a development of the device used for several years on the Belgian race tracks, where a picture is taken of the winning horse as his nose passes the post, and four other pictures are taken of the horses which follow, setting at rest any doubts that might arise about the order of finishing.

For the Olympic games Branger has constructed a device, the principal feature of which is an electro-magnet. This starts the movement of a hand which completes the circumference of a clock face in exactly one second. The face is divided into one hundred parts.

As soon as the starter's pistol cracks the hand begins to travel around the circle. At the instant the runner touches the tape at the winning post the electro-magnet stops the hand. The winner's time is registered to one-hundredth of a second, closer than the human eye is capable of perceiving. At the same time a photograph of the actual arrival is taken by a camera automatically registering up to one-fifth hundredth part of a second.

Navy Crews Go
Into Training

Annapolis, March 6.—The navy's Olympic champions of 1920 are going into training again to try out for this year's classic at Paris.

The navy department has approved the proposal that a club be organized by former navy oarsmen for the purpose to repeat their last victory.

Several members of the champion 1920 crew are stationed here on ensign and several other members of the intercollegiate crews of 1920 and 1921 have been ordered here on special duty to start training.

Plan Another
Golf Ball Test

New York, March 6.—The executive committee of the United States Golf association plans to conduct two series of tests of the present manufactured golf balls, one at Pinehurst, N. C., March 27 to 30, and the other at Pine Valley, Sumner, N. J., April 11 to 14, it was announced today.

A driving machine will be used and samples of all leading makes of balls will be tested. A test was conducted at Jekyll island, of the Georgia coast, recently.

TECH GRIDDERS HOLD FIRST
SCRIMMAGE OF SPRING WORK

BY JOHN STATON.

The first semblance of a scrimmage since November at Tech flats came yesterday afternoon. For all practical purposes it was a scrimmage. But, no downs were considered, and the ball passed from one team to another at the will of the coaches.

But the personal contact was there, that good old rough and tumble contact that is the making of all good football teams. The two teams were about evenly matched, and ground was gained only at the expense of great exertion.

Quite a little crowd was out to watch the initial performance of the spring football season. They were scattered over all parts of the field watching various minor sports until the first clash was seen. Then, like bees swarming to honey, they crowded the playing arena. In fact, they pushed so close that Coach Alexander had to stop the scrimmage and ask them to retire to the stands. It was the first thing that savored of real football since last November, and the people present, seemed anxious to see all that was going on.

Tom Angler, freshman halfback, was the first man to carry the ball. He hit off right tackle for five yards and fumbled. The opposition recovered, and thus began the first scrimmage of the 1924 spring training.

It was interesting to note the lineup of the team, which for all practical purposes might be called the varsity. The ends were Marshall and Davis; tackles, Usury and Carpenter; guards, Hall and Williamson. John Murray played center. Red Davis, full back; Harris, quarter; Irwin and McGee, halves. Felton, McConnell, exclaim elect, and Claire Fire were mentioned lending assistance to the mentioned team while Coach Alexander was devoting most of his time to the other eleven which was composed largely of freshmen and sophomores. Quite a few of the letter men are unable to report for spring football practice, due to other athletic activities. For instance, Gardner, Mickle, Wyoff, Albright, Bob Reeves and Cliff King are on the baseball squad. Monk Nabele is on the track team.

Will be Real Test.
From this time on will come the real test of ability. Many a player will be made or broken in three weeks just ahead. For scrimmages will be numerous, now that they have begun. And it is largely by performance in scrimmage that a man is judged as a football player.

There was one minor casualty registered during the afternoon. A scrub center got a rap on his shoulder blade after a pretty straight-on tackle. He will no doubt be all right in a day or two.

Tech is going to have an effective offensive next year. For, it is probable that some method will be employed to increase the power of the jump shift. Part of the effectiveness of the jump shift lies in its qualities of surprising the opponents.

But the jump shift has ceased to be the terror that it was for the simple reason that other coaches are learning its little secrets and how to combat it.

The jump shift will still go great guns if a plan can be arranged to keep the opponents uncertain as to when and where it is going to break out. Very likely, such a plan will be carried out in the Tech offensive next fall.

There is every reason to believe that Tech will have a good football team next fall. In the first place the backs will be experienced. In the second place the line will be as tight, if two tackles come through in time. With four letter men reporting regularly at the tackle positions, at least two of these ought to be the stuff next year. The law of averages would demand that.

Jap Golf Player
Win 2nd Round
Pinehurst, N. C., March 6.—Rokuro Akahoshi, a Japanese golfer of Princeton, N. J., again today played spectacular golf to advance in the first of the 20th annual spring tournament for golfers, the second round of which was played today. After defeating Larry Paton, of Bellevue, N. J., yesterday by winning an extra hole match, he went two extra holes today to defeat E. C. Beall, of Uniontown.

As a result of today's matches, Akahoshi tomorrow will play in the semi-final against William F. McPhail, of Boston, while John D. Chapman, of Greenwich, Conn., low medalist of the tournament, will match against Donald C. Parson, of Youngstown, who won the event in 1923.

"College Men

are the best dressed men in America," says a fashion writer. And there is no mysticism as to how this is accomplished.

For more than 35 years, through the ever changing varieties of style, college men have worn a type of suit expressive of conservative good taste.

While clothes makers flattered from style to style, these men clung faithfully to their ideal, at times going far to procure it.

But today, in Famous DUNSHIRE Clothing this identical style is being offered to you here in your own college shop. You'll recognize instantly those graceful touches which have lifted these suits from the realms of the commonplace to the circle of the "accepted."

THOMAS C. MILLER

Candidate for

Clerk of the Superior Court

TO THE CITIZENS OF FULTON COUNTY:

In my race for Clerk of the Superior Court I have met with great encouragement from all classes of citizens, and I have every reason to believe that I will be nominated on March 19th, by an overwhelming majority.

I am a native Georgian and have spent the greater part of my life in FULTON COUNTY. I have served for many years as a Deputy in the Office of the Clerk of the Superior Court and have been paid for my services a moderate salary only. I have never drawn fees in the office. I believe that the fee system should be changed and the Officers put on reasonable salaries and I will cooperate and use my best efforts to have this change made.

Most of my associates will be the ladies and gentlemen now in the Clerk's Office. In this office each employee is a trained specialist and it will be impossible for any new set of people, untrained in the duties of this office, to perform these duties properly, until years have elapsed.

I am supported in this race by practically all the Lawyers of the Atlanta Bar, because they realize the need of trained and experienced clerks to properly perform the duties of the Clerk's Office.

My opponent now has a remunerative County Office and one of his Deputies also holds a County Office.

I do not believe that the people of this County will vote to turn out people who have worked faithfully for them and have become efficient by reason of their training and experience, to gratify the ambitions of men who already hold good Political Offices.

The office of the Clerk of the Superior Court has not been handed down like an estate, but the people at every successive election have elected the Clerk of the Superior Court.

My assistants are well known and honorable ladies and gentlemen. I am running a clean and honorable race and have nothing derogatory to say against my opponents. I respectfully solicit your vote and influence on March 19th. MY ASSOCIATES WILL BE:

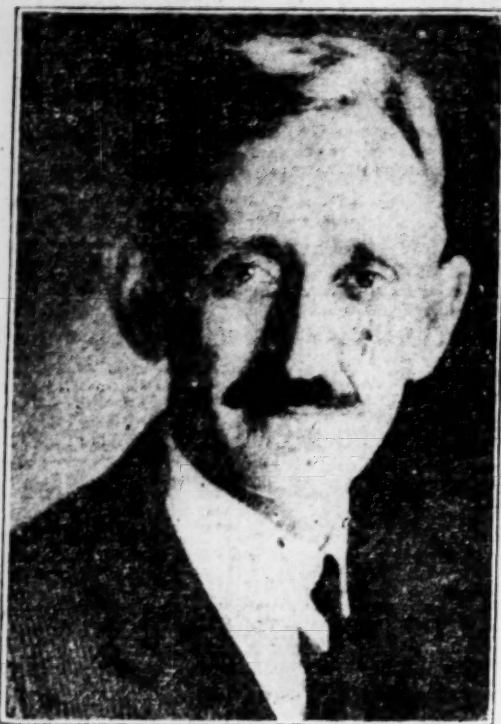

Miss Lucy B. Thompson
Mrs. N. M. Henderson
Mrs. Frank S. Perham
Miss J. G. Tucker
Miss Vera Cooper
Mrs. E. B. Waitt
Miss Irene Lovejoy

Miss Marion Catlett

VOTERS

This County Campaign simmers down to just one issue—

FOUR YEARS

It's a question of whether you abolish the miserable, wasteful fee system in 1925.

Or—

Whether you wait until 1929 to do it.

The candidates of the Fulton county ring for re-election profess to favor abolishing the fee system. They do favor THEIR bill which abolishes the system—WHEN?

In 1929

The county officers' lobby at the capitol worked last year for the bill abolishing the system in 1929. They will be back at work this summer for 1929.

What the Taxpayer Wants to Do Is Abolish the Fee System

NOW

Here's what the Four Years more of the fee system will cost the burdened taxpayers of the county yearly: $520,778.47—(on the basis of 1923 figures, taken from their own reports).

Four More Years of This Will Cost the Staggering Sum of $2,083,113.88.

Where do you want half of this huge sum to go? Into the treasury of Fulton county, or into the pockets of seven fee-grabbing politicians?

My opponent, W. H. Abbott, in his speeches, says: "Be ye not deceived."

I say, "Be ye strong in your wisdom. Use your own figures and your own good judgment and act for your own pocketbook and your community's good."

End the fee system by electing people pledged to abolish it—NOW.

Vote for Marvin P. Roane for Tax Receiver of Fulton county, who is pledged to work for a fixed salary of $7,500.

(Signed)

MARVIN P. ROANE.

HARTSFIELD NOW ACTING AS MAYOR; SIMS ON VACATION

Today it is Mayor W. B. Hartsfield.

Mayor Walter Sims left the city Thursday night for Cuba, visiting the island as a member of the Cuban commission and in the general order of things it will fall to the lot of Alderman I. N. Ragsdale, mayor pro tem, to perform all the duties pertaining to "mayorship" in his absence. It so happens that Mr. Ragsdale is so busily engaged in his race for the board of county commissioners that he has given way to the next man in line.

Alderman W. B. Hartsfield, provisional mayor pro tem, is probably the youngest man who ever occupied Atlanta's mayoralty chair. He is 34 years of age, and is regarded as one of general council's leaders. As a presiding officer, in the absence of Alderman Ragsdale, he has become popular with his colleagues for the tact and dispatch with which he handles proceedings.

Lovely Luncheon Assembles West End Women

The luncheon tables were artistically decorated with quantities of jonquills and pink roses arranged in low bowls and tall vases placed at intervals.

A unique feature of the occasion was the introduction of each guest by the woman to her left, in a witty synopsis of her characteristics.

A committee on arrangements for the luncheon included Mrs. Murray Howard, Mrs. Fred Stewart, Mrs. Arthur Merrill, Mrs. C. C. Shipley, Mrs. T. S. Sells, and Mrs. H. M. Simpson.

Lovers were placed for forty guests.

Mah Jong was played during the afternoon. The prizes were a bottle of French perfume and a string of beads. The score cards were hand-painted in St. Patrick's day figures.

Following the game tea was served in the dining room from a lace-covered table. Placed in the center of the table was a crystal bowl filled with lilies of the valley. Tall green candles burned in crystal holders and crystal compotes were filled with green and white mints.

In addition about 500 other cards have been sent out to friends of members, inviting them to each of the series of dances, these tickets having to be presented at the door each time. Additional invitation cards to the dance series may be obtained by application to Mrs. Frank Nadele, Hemlock 0690, or to members of the Civic Drive committee. Bowls of yellow jonquils and narcissi were placed on the tables and mantels in the rooms where the game was played. The bridge scores, tallies and appointments of the supper table were suggestive of St. Patrick's day.

The hosts were assisted in entertaining by Mrs. H. A. Lawrence, Miss Sue Brown Sterne and Miss Ida Mae James.

Drama League Officer Lands Rare Art of Ruth Draper

The Atlanta centre of the Drama League of America will present Miss Ruth Draper at the Atlanta Woman's club auditorium at 8:15 o'clock Saturday evening in a program of original character sketches.

So many questions have been asked as to who and what Miss Draper is and of what character is her entertainment that the following letter from Robert F. Moore, officer of the Atlanta Drama league, is given for the information of the public:

"Who, and what is Miss Draper? She is an eminently successful young American artist whose reputation is equally great on both sides of the Atlantic ocean. Some describe her as a reciter, others as a monologist, and still others style her as an impersonator; but she is none of these in the generally understood meaning of the words and at the same time, according to those who have seen her she is all of them rolled into one with a dash of the mime and mimic thrown in for good measure. She is, in fact, unique in her line of performance."

"As to the character of her entertainments, all she requires is a stage on which she presents her sketches, with no other properties than a table and a chair. The rest she provides in her own personality and the manner in which she influences her audience."

"She calls her entertainments 'Original Character Sketches,' and in her presentation she peoples her stage with the various characters which you seem absolutely to visualize as she talks, and each character, through her impersonation, plays his own part. Her art lies in her ability to project her different characters into the imaginative brain of each individual member of her audience."

"How does she accomplish this?"

Miss Ruth Draper, world renowned actress, as she appeared in an impersonation of a Scotch immigrant.

The only way this question can be answered is by the person asking it seeing for herself or himself. You must see her to realize it, and having once seen her you will want to go back and see her again and again.

"Beginning her entertainments a few years ago in the Princess theater in New York city, she has been obliged time after time to move into larger theaters for lack of accommodation, such as the Greenwich Village, the Selwyn and the Times Square theaters, all of which her audiences have outgrown. On her return from her European trip last year it was found necessary to take the Broadhurst theater to accommodate those who would hear her Sunday evening and matinee programs, and this theater she packs from floor to ceiling, tickets being sold for four weeks in advance.

"It was the two Mathews, Charles and Charles-James (father and son), who, I believe, gave somewhat similar entertainments a generation or more ago, which were styled by them as 'Mathews at Home.' Leight Hunt, speaking of the sketches of the elder Mathews said: 'For the richness and variety of his humor they were as good as half a dozen plays distilled.'"

What this essayist and critic would have said of Miss Draper, could he have attended one of her entertainments, would have been well worth listening to.

Mrs. Burke Is Hostess.

A delightful affair of Thursday was the bridge-luncheon at which Mrs. Arthur P. Burke entertained as the second of the series of social functions she is giving.

The table was overlaid with imported lace in the center of which was a silver basket filled with white narcissi and other spring flowers.

Mrs. John Andrew McMillan and Mrs. Frank Quillian Little assisted in entertaining.

The top score prize was a hand-painted imported vase and the consolation was a French novelty.

Don't let constipation make you an invalid —relieve it with Kellogg's Bran

Few people realize how dangerous is constipation until this dread disease tears down their health. Did you know that more than forty serious diseases can be traced to constipation?

Keep your health, or restore it, with Kellogg's Bran, cooked, and kneaded. It brings relief in mild and chronic cases of constipation. It is effective because it is ALL bran. That is why it is recommended so highly by doctors. They know that only ALL bran can bring 100 per cent results. Part bran is, at best, only a halfway measure.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran will bring permanent relief—even in the most chronic case. It is guaranteed to do so. If it fails, your grocer will return your money.

Because it is ALL bran it sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine. Like nature, it acts naturally. It makes the intestine function regularly.

Eat it every day—two tablespoonfuls—in chronic cases, with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Enjoy it in those wonderful recipes given on every package.

The flavor of Kellogg's Bran, cooked and kneaded, is delicious. It is crisp, nut-like. Quite different from ordinary bran, which are so unpalatable. Kellogg's Bran is made in Battle Creek and served by the leading hotels and clubs everywhere. Sold by all grocers.

Wooden Wives

—By Laura Jean Libbey

Pauline looked at her in wonder, as she joined her in her boudoir.

"You look—superb, Marcelle," she exclaimed. "What a pity it is we will have no one at dinner to admire you; your wonderful beauty ought not to be wasted on Daniel—and me. I must have eligible gentlemen to meet you—I must indeed; such charm shall not be wasted on desert air."

"Oh, no, please do not invite any one else—a party of three is so cozy—quite delightful—I am sure to enjoy it so much more."

Pauline looked at her in unforgotten astonishment, thinking a girl of such rare beauty as was Marcelle's was surely created to be admired.

Daniel was quite as much surprised and Pauline had been when his careless gaze fell upon Marcelle in greeting.

Of late, dining alone together, when it was unavoidable, his eyes had turned to her as it was to Pauline; on these occasions, utter, unbroken silence prevailed both feeling relieved when the trial was over.

How amazingly different it was with Marcelle present. She was all life and sparkle, merriest. She brought the first laugh to Daniel's lips that he had known since the day following the inaugural ball.

Very adroitly Pauline was drawn into the liveliest prevailing, until as Daniel thought, she was once more like her old self, the Pauline he had loved and adored. He thanked heaven Marcelle had come; she might be able to establish peace between his young wife and himself. He caught at the hope as a drawing match, as a straw. Pauline never breakfasted with him, taking her breakfast in her boudoir. To his surprise Daniel found Marcelle at the breakfast table, looking marvelously beautiful in a simple mauve breakfast frock, and more vivacious, if that were possible, than she had been the night before. The fortnight which followed passed very quickly, and favorably to Marcelle. She noted she had awakened the interest, nay, the admiration of Daniel Westlow; she was satisfied with that beginning. Marcelle, however, both the opera and the theater. Pauline refused to go with him when Daniel suggested engaging a box for these occasions, but suggested he take Marcelle; he could not well refuse, with Marcelle's eager dark eyes looking delightedly up at him.

Pauline's request was law to him. Daniel smothered the sigh that rose to his lips, and agreed to take her friend at her bidding.

The most beautiful women in the world are to be found in Washington at the beginning of the season. Daniel was indeed much surprised to observe that the beautiful French girl whom he accompanied, outshone them all.

It amused Daniel, somewhat, to note that the glances of most of the men in that vast, brilliant assemblage, returned again and again, it being becomingly fixed upon Miss Valieu, his beautiful companion. He felt sure many of them would be coming to him later, for an introduction. On the following day, she spoke to Marcelle, concerning her pleasure in the matter, and was much astonished when she declined to meet with her. "No, any one of which would have been a most desirable party measure for Washington requirements."

"No, no, no," she murmured, "on this occasion, please Mr. Westlow—perhaps some other time," she murmured, "I am here to visit just Pauline and myself. We are just a little homey visit together, the three of us—that will make me happier than anything else."

Pauline refused to go to the senate, even when Daniel had a most important bill at issue. Looking about the vast throng, Daniel was sure to see Marcelle's face, and note her encouraging smile.

Washington has known many a scandal, but none more relished than the story which was at first hinted at, then referred to more openly, than the remark that the "biggest" senator from the far west was at odds with his beautiful young wife—and all because of a stunning brunette—a French girl, who was seen accompanying him, everywhere. Society nudged its shoulders, complaisant awaiting the climax.

Daniel Westlow had not the slightest idea of the sensation he was creating by obeying Pauline's behest to escort her guest hither and thither, therefore, Marcelle had never failed a charm every man who came within the radius of her charms, she felt, indeed, that this man, whom he baby-faced Pauline had won, seemed so impregnable to her fascinations.

The servants of the household soon noted how very interested the beautiful French girl was in Senator Westlow, and talked it over among themselves, wishing they dared give their mistress an inkling of the serious friend in whom she reposed such confidence.

One day, returning from a walk through the park, Marcelle seemed very much excited. "When we are one, I will tell you whom I ran over," she whispered in Pauline's ear. Shortly after, the two were seated together in Pauline's boudoir.

Prepare for a surprise, but do not expect, dear," murmured Marcelle, putting Pauline to a sofa, and putting her arms about her. "It was—Hugh—Boyd."

A gasp fell from Pauline's lips, a fit pallor spread over her cheeks. Marcelle could feel the slight tremble in her clasp.

"I did not know you had ever met him," faltered Pauline.

"I did not mention before for it is useless—that I met him the day I married Mr. Westlow. You remember I was waiting in the drawing room for you to return with some punch books you had gone to your father's office for—and, it seems, Mr. Boyd had an appointment to meet me. When you did not appear, and after waiting a long time—he came to the house to inquire for you. In the semi-darkness, he mistook me for you, and in the broken words he uttered, I discovered his secret and yours—your love for each other, and why he was there—to beg you to elope with him."

"When you returned to the house, the bride of another, I determined to keep Mr. Boyd's coming to your home, and the object of it, a secret even from you. There was little use in opening an old wound."

"He told me he was to suggest it when you met," answered Marcelle. "But—that is past and gone—if he had not stopped, called my name, telling me who he was. Oh, such a marvelous change as I beheld in him. He was so bright and so bonny then, now—years of the bitterest sorrow passing over him could not have changed him more. The loss of you has broken the man's heart, dear."

"Do not say that," exclaimed Pauline distressedly. "I cannot bear it."

"I am only telling you warning you what you might expect to see, if you choose to come face to face with the poor fellow," murmured Marcelle.

"It is not probable that we shall ever meet, again," responded Pauline huskily. "I have put him out of my thoughts, out of my life."

"And yet you two loved each other so fondly once?" asked Marcelle. "We must not talk of him, I am striving even yet to forget," faltered Pauline in a voice freighted with sighs.

"Never again after this once," agreed Marcelle. "But I feel quite duty bound to tell you all that transpired. When he saw me, he jumped to the conclusion that I was here on a visit to me, I replied I was."

"Tell me," cried, catching my hand, "is Pauline—happy? I have haunted the street where she lives just to catch one glimpse of that face dearer to me even yet, than the living, beating heart in my bosom. Oh, tell me—be kind to me, Miss Valieu, answer me truthfully—has the man who stole my treasure from me—far forgotten me as to be happy with another? Oh, God! the thought of it has almost unseated my reason. Love for her has consumed me; I cannot live without her, I want to look on her face just one little moment—then it does not matter what happens to me after that."

Pauline was sobbing bitterly; after a few moments she raised her face to Marcelle's whispering faintly: "He seemed to give me up—easily enough—making no attempt to see me nor write."

Marcelle interrupted her quickly. "He said that he did write, entrusting his letters to a friend to be delivered to you—providing you would receive them—but they were always returned to him—unopened. When he heard you had come east, he said he made up his mind to see you here, for a moment—then go out of your life—forever. Oh, Pauline dear! I have never beheld such a night, unquenchable love! He was a man utterly crushed down and out. Love for you—has killed him."

Pauline was sobbing afresh. "I

A "for men only" sign, neatly hung over the door of the grill room of the Piedmont hotel, marks the opening in Atlanta of the only place where food is served which women cannot buy, however weighted down with rein of the realm.

The grill room opens today at noon and is in line with the policy of the Piedmont and other well known southern hotels, to offer the best possible service to every particular class. So, the new grill room is "for men only" and a special mid-day luncheon, at popular prices, will be served from 11 o'clock in the morning to 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, each week day.
Skilled workers have thoroughly renovated the former buffet room, and "put it in the front" and converted it into a grill room. For several years the buffet room has not been in service. It will be opened at noon Friday and each week-day thereafter, "for men only."

POLICE NET TIGHTENS ABOUT WOMAN'S KILLER

Orlando, Fla., March 6.—Strings in the police net are today tightening around the slayer of Mrs. Anna McDonald, who was found dead in her home here Tuesday night with a crushed skull, a .32-caliber revolver by her side, chairs overturned and broken and marks in the wall of three bullets, supposed to have been fired by the dead woman in the evident struggle. Both city and county authorities made a minute search of the grounds surrounding the house for an axe supposed to have been used in the crime. Sheriff Karel took into custody a taxicab man, operating in Orlando, who, he says, has admitted he answered his call to the place. According to his story, he entered the McDonald home and waited in the front room for the woman to dress, all the while drinking liquor. After approximately one hour, he said, she told him to drive around the block and she would meet him on the corner. He did so, but the woman failed to keep the appointment and he drove away. It is the belief of the police that when the taxicab driver was in the house, the slayer was in a bedroom and Mrs. McDonald, for some unknown reason, was trying to shield him. Neighbors reported the sound of a gun being fired a few minutes before the four shots were fired.

BANDIT PLEADS GUILTY TO HOLDING UP BANK

Jackson, Tenn., March 6.—Buck Lacey pleaded guilty in the Carroll county court at Huntington today to a charge of robbery in connection with the holding up of the Bank of McKenney, Tenn., last November, which netted the robbers about $21,000 in cash and bonds.

Lee Allen, alleged to have been implicated in the robbery, pleaded not guilty.

FIGHT FOR CONTROL OF RADIO FORECAST

New York, March 6.—A legal fight for control of radio broadcasting is forecast as a result of the suit by the American Telephone and Telegraph company for a permanent injunction restraining Station WHN, operated here by Marcus Loew and George Schuchel, from broadcasting.

The request for an injunction is based on the contention that most broadcasting stations operating in the United States are using apparatus that infringe upon patent rights of the American Telephone and Telegraph company which operates Station WEAF.

Dougherty Ordinary Missing 5 Months, Shipwreck Victim

Albany, Ga., March 6.—(Special.) William E. Smith, ordinary of Dougherty county, missing since October 6, will begin his journey homeward from Tampa, Fla., Friday and will reach Albany Saturday, according to telegrams received here by his wife. The telegrams indicate that he has just reached Tampa after an ocean voyage on which he was shipwrecked.

Details of the shipwreck are not given in any of the telegrams, but it is assumed the Dougherty county ordinary lost whatever money he had with him at the time, since he has no money he wired him at Tampa. There has been practically no trace of Ordinary Smith since he left Albany. His destination was unknown and neither letter nor telegram came to family or friends here. Parties who reported having seen him at several places, mistook someone else for him, his friends say.

Certain duties of the office of ordinary which he alone could discharge have gone unattended to since he left. Others have been looked after by other county officers.

The missing ordinary's wife is now one of four candidates in Dougherty county race for the office, subject to the primary to be held March 19, and as the entries closed several days ago, it will be impossible for Ordinary Smith to qualify for the nomination.

Mrs. Smith has stated that if elected she will personally discharge the duties of the office.

Is she elected, she will be the first woman in the state to hold a judiciary office. Her friends stated that she has an excellent chance for nomination.

No reason has yet been assigned for the ordinary's disappearance, either in telegrams or by friends of the family. He was happy with his family, and his books are in good condition, it is reported.

and his companion escaped by leaping from the speeding machine when their capture appeared inevitable. Officer L. J. Brooks, a member of the squad, jumped from the police car to the other machine and brought it to a stop at Cain and Jackson streets. The beer and still were confiscated at 342 Abby street, and a negro giving the name of Alvin Wyatt was arrested there. The apparatus had evidently been in operation but a short time before arrival of the officers, and police were told that two automobile loads of liquor were rushed from the house a few minutes before the raid. All but a few gallons of the beer, which, with the still, will be held as evidence, was destroyed.

Pat Prater, 61 West Harris street, and N. F. Ryan, of 24 Houston street, were arrested Thursday morning by officers led by Captain A. J. Holcombe, of the plainclothes department. A small quantity of liquor was confiscated.
